

Ham Ends Space Flight With Cheerful Handshake— Chimp Signals Go-Ahead To Astronaut

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Winding up a space flight with a chipper, cheerful handshake, a chimpanzee called Ham today signalled a go-ahead for man to enter space safely.

Ham is due back this afternoon to this rocket space port—which he left miffed abruptly Tuesday atop a Redstone rocket.

The largest animal ever sent aloft, Ham's trip 155 miles high and 420 miles southeast into the Atlantic into the rescuing hands of the U.S. Navy carried several main significances:

1. It indicates manned space flight is feasible. An American astronaut is scheduled this spring to duplicate Ham's daring flight.

2. The Soviets appear likely to win the race to be first to orbit a man around the earth.

3. A very slight mis-firing in the rocket system hurling out Ham's capsule may well require further tests with or without a chimp aboard, before a man goes up. But this also produced valuable dividends.

4. Ham himself is reported in excellent shape, a smart 37 pounds of amiability.

Plucked from the sea by a helicopter from the USS Donner, he shook hands with the veterinarian greeting him when his one-ton space capsule was unlocked three hours after launching.

After a medical checkup, Ham drew a bonus of a banana and a bit more apple on top of his scientifically prescribed menu.

His flight was one of graduated steps in a National Aeronautics and Space Administration program hopefully intended to put an American astronaut into several round trips about the earth in 1961.

In a big first step, Ham twice felt the crushing weight of increased gravity. Taking off, he weighed seven times more than on earth, and on coming down at a 5,000-mile per hour clip into the atmosphere was subjected to forces 12 times normal gravity.

But, also, for about seven minutes he felt no weight at all in free fall as he lay strapped on a couch within a capsule exactly like that built to carry a man aloft.

All this didn't bother his senses, judging from early analysis of information radioed down to earth, said NASA officials. Ham had to press levers within certain time limits or else get an electric shock. Partial checks so far show he never got a shock.

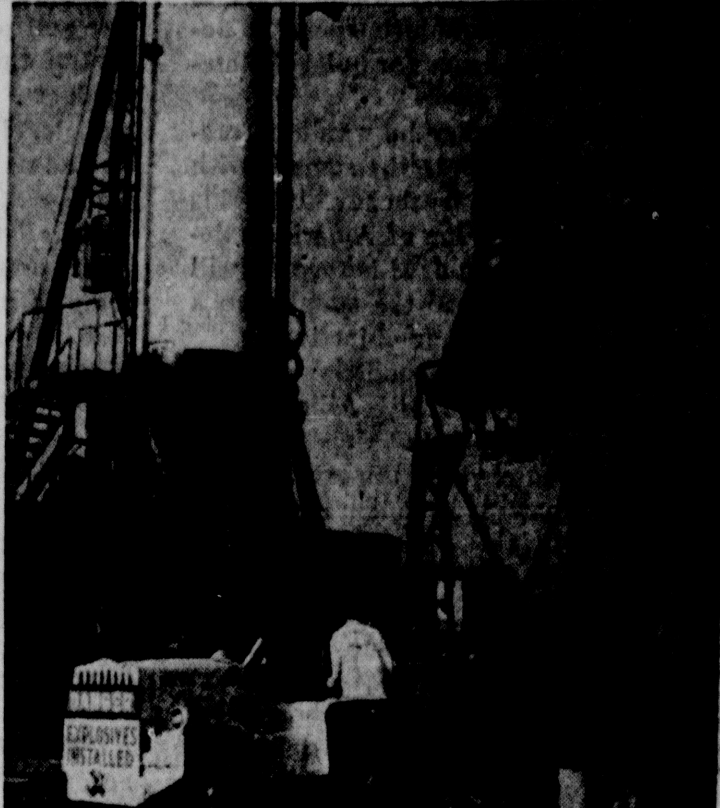

Ham's test was a prelude to sending one of seven human volunteers on a similar flight. But the Soviet Union bids to win on man in space for several reasons. The Soviets have long had far more powerful rockets. Sputnik II, launched in November 1957, carried the dog Laika. Since then, the Soviets have covered two dogs, each weighing about 10 pounds, aboard a space craft sent into orbit last August. Soviet space capsules are big enough perhaps to carry even two men at a time.

Pacific indicate the Soviet Union is on the verge of some new launching. The dividends of Ham's flight came through a lucky chance. The Redstone rocket burned fuel too fast. This triggered release of an escape rocket carried on top of Ham's capsule and gave an extra push so Ham traveled 40 miles higher and 138 miles farther than intended.

That gave Ham two extra minutes of being weightless and forced faster and hotter re-entry to the earth but cheerful Ham took it all without ill effects, and this augurs well for human astronauts.

Captive Liner In Recife Harbor

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

RECIFE, Brazil (AP)—The Santa Maria headed in from the South Atlantic toward Recife with her captive passengers today, but stopped short of the dock for another parley to determine future action.

A U.S. Navy spokesman announced this development as President Janio Quadros met with his cabinet in Brasilia, 1,000 miles to the southwest, to decide what to do about the hijacked ship.

As for the rebels themselves, Quadros sent assurances of political asylum to their chief, Capt. Henrique Galvao. He promised to do anything more than existing laws permit.

Quadros' message did not measure up completely to Galvao's request to unload passengers, refuel and return to sea to continue his fight against the dictatorial regime in Portugal.

The new chief executive, inaugurated Tuesday, radioed felicitations to Galvao and recalled a meeting they had several months ago in Caracas, Venezuela. It was in Caracas that Galvao plotted seizure of the $16.6 million Portuguese liner in hopes of starting a revolution against the Portuguese premier, Antonio Salazar.

Quadros showed concern for the passengers aboard, saying:

"We accompany with profound feelings the fortunes of the hundreds of passengers who find themselves under your guard and responsibility."

The U. S. Navy spokesman said Rear Adm. Allen E. Smith Jr., and Brazilian authorities conferred aboard the ship about landing of the passengers and the Santa Maria's future.

Officers of the U.S. destroyer Damato said the negotiations took place about three miles off the port, outside Brazilian territorial waters. The Santa Maria was (Continued On Page 11)

House Demos Dig In To Fight For JFK's Legislative Program

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP)—After scoring an important victory on enlargement of its Rules Committee, the House Democratic leadership digs in today for a long fight to enact President Kennedy's legislative program.

The fight probably will be a tough one, since Tuesday's victory for the Kennedy administration and Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas was won with only a five-vote margin.

The House voted 217 to 212 to back Rayburn's plan to enlarge the Rules Committee from 12 to 15 members, wresting committee control from a conservative coalition. Theoretically this puts liberal Democrats in control by an 8-7 edge.

The White House reported Kennedy was pleased with the outcome. Officially he had taken no direct part in the fight, but left no doubt that he favored the Rayburn plan.

Under Tuesday's action, Democrats will add two members to the committee and Republicans will add one. Republicans also have two vacancies to fill on the committee. (Continued On Page 11)

Urges Stronger Unit Of Criminal Identification

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The Illinois Sheriff's Association Tuesday urged Gov. Otto Kerner to expand and strengthen the State Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation.

In resolutions adopted by the association during the final session of its three-day meeting, the governor also was asked to re-instate James B. Christensen of Springfield as head of the bureau.

Norris Froelich, Lake County sheriff and president of the association, said his group wants the bureau to retain its present independent status in the state government. The bureau formerly was under the supervision of state police.

The association proposed that the bureau be given a more influential role in state police action and be given closer contacts with county sheriffs, he said. Christensen quit recently as bureau chief after the department was criticized for its handling of evidence in the slaying of three Chicago area women in Starved Rock State Park.

Froelich was named president of the association, Frank Sain, Cook County sheriff, was named vice president, and U. S. Rep. Elmer Hoffman of Wheaton was elected secretary-treasurer.

DISCOVER CAVE

ALTON, Ill. (AP)—A big cave was discovered near Alton recently after a road construction crew jarred nearby ground with dynamite blast.

The cave opening appeared in a bluff along the Mississippi River near the Alton Water Co. pumping station.

Two men who explored the front of the cave said they found large stalactites hanging from the ceiling. The men said the stalactites may weigh as much as six tons.

Hudson Ice-Choked Cold Lingers In East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Hudson River was choked with ice today and New York, Maine, Massachusetts and most of New England was stifled with bitter subzero temperatures which made Feb. 1 look like the last days of January.

As New England entered its 14th day encircled by an arctic air mass, Boston notched its coldest morning since Feb. 9, 1959 with a pre-dawn 2 above. Most New England readings ranged from 20 degrees to 30 degrees below zero. It was 22 below zero at Caribou, Maine, when Juneau, Alaska, recorded 23 above, and, Fairbanks, Alaska, posted a minus 20.

Thermal, Calif., had a reading of 78 Tuesday and Yuma, Ariz., recorded 78, compared with an early morning 23 degrees below zero at Lebanon, N. H. and 17 below at International Falls, Minn.

Ice was threatening to interrupt steamer connections with the summer resort island of Nantucket, 15 miles off Cape Cod today. The steamer Nantucket couldn't get through the fies Tuesday, so Nantucket mail was sent by air from Martha's Vineyard Island.

The 14th consecutive day of below zero temperatures at Portland, Maine, broke a record of 13 straight set in 1948. It was minus 12 at Portland, this morning, but the state's lowest reading was -25 at Houlton.

Some of the ice jams were loosened Tuesday by thawing temperatures. Two towboats, trapped on the ice-choked Mississippi near Cairo, Ill., worked themselves free with the help of a third boat.

But the ice closed again 13 miles north of Cairo, where the Ohio joins the Mississippi.

The Ohio, too, was still troubled with ice. Towboats were moving but the U. S. Engineers at Cincinnati reported the going was slow and the ice heavy. Many towboats were tied up, waiting for the ice to ease.

Dionne Quint Begins 2-Year Novitiate Term

BAIE ST. PAUL, Que. (AP)—Yvonne Dionne, one of the quintuplets, has begun a two-year novitiate at the convent of the Little Franciscan Sisters in this town 55 miles northeast of Quebec.

Yvonne announced last week she planned to become a nun but said later her entrance into the convent would be postponed a few days until publicity died down. The superior of the convent said Tuesday night she arrived last Thursday.

"She seems very happy," the superior said. "She appears to adapt herself quickly to our way of life."

Yvonne is 26 and has been trained as a nurse. Her sister Emilie was a postulant at the time of her death in 1954. Another of the quintuplets, Marie, entered and left a convent twice without taking final vows. She and the other two quints are now married and Marie has a baby girl.

Accuses U. Of I. Board Of Closing Talks To Public

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—A legislator has accused the University of Illinois Board of trustees of closing its meetings to the public.

Rep. Paul Simon, D-Troy, commented in connection with a resolution he offered Tuesday in the Illinois House. He said it would not be pressed if the board meetings were public hereafter. The resolution, if adopted, would urge the university to hold open meetings.

Simon, sponsor of a 1957 law requiring public bodies to hold open meetings, said he was sure of the board's good intentions in matters of general policy, but he said the board was holding "secret meetings for dis-simon wrote a letter Monday to D. Henry, the university president, saying:

"It is always easy for governments and governmental institutions to find reasons why it is not in the public interest to give the public the full facts; this is particularly true when something controversial is involved."

"It is easy to forget that basic to our whole theory of government is that we inform the electorate, not only what decisions are reached, but how they are reached; it is easy to forget that 'public business is the public's business.'"

TOWBOATMEN HOPE WARMER WEATHER WILL SOFTEN ICE

CAIRO, Ill. (AP)—Towboatmen, beleaguered for days by polar-like ice jams in this area of the Mississippi River, hoped today for more high temperatures to soften up the ice packs and open the river.

The mercury reached the low 50s Tuesday and for a time the ice jams were clear.

But the ice closed up again 13 miles north of the confluence of the Mississippi and Ohio River at Cairo.

Two towboats were trapped for awhile Tuesday but were freed by a third in a battle with the ice.

$10,000 FIRE LOSS

BENTON, Ill. (AP)—Timber fires in the lower 13 counties of the state, an area of heavy woodlands, caused an estimated $10,000 damage in 1960.

District forester Martin Anderson said there were 171 fires which destroyed 2,300 acres of timber during the year. In January of 1961, Anderson said, there were 64 fires.

Samos Circles Globe

SPY-IN-SKY MAY BE FIRST OF MANY

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP)—Samos II is circling the globe every 95 minutes today on a pioneer mission which may lead to a whole system of United States electronic military scouts.

The ultimate goal of the program is to be able to make detailed photographs of any point on earth and thus detect a buildup by a potential foe.

The mission is so secret that the Air Force won't even confirm that the satellite, launched Tuesday, will radio pictures back to earth. The orbiting vehicle is equipped with cameras to photograph ground terrain and sensors to record electro-magnetic radiation.

It can be made to transmit information as it passes over stations where data can be reproduced, stored, integrated and interpreted by automatic display equipment.

Signals from Samos II were being picked up by tracking and telemetry stations at Vandenberg Air Force Base at Oahu, Hawaii and at Kodiak, Alaska.

All orbital data was being received at the Air Force Satellite Test Center in Sunnyvale, Calif., south of San Francisco.

Samos I, launched last October, failed to orbit. No. 2 in the series roared aloft into a drizzly sky at 12:23 p.m. Tuesday and disappeared in a heavy overcast. Two hours later the Air Force said it had achieved polar orbit. Its path carries the satellite at altitudes ranging from 300 to 350 miles.

In Triple Slaying Trial—Find Not One Juror Among Fifty Examined

OTTAWA, Ill. (AP)—Two days have elapsed without the selection of one juror in the murder trial of Chester Rocky Weger, 21, accused of beating to death three socially prominent Chicago area women in Starved Rock State Park March 14.

Fifty prospective jurors had been examined from an original roster of 56 as the second day of the trial ended Tuesday in the small Circuit Court chamber of LaSalle County Courthouse.

Authorities called for another panel of 100 to be on hand when examination resumed today. Weger, sandy-haired father of two, is being tried for the alleged murder of Mrs. Lillian Oetting. The prosecution has said it plans to use evidence regarding the death of her two companions — Mrs. Mildred Lindquist, 50, and Mrs. Frances Murphy, 47.

The bodies of the three women from the Chicago suburb of River-side were found in a shallow cave March 16, two days after they had (Continued On Page 11)

Pushbutton Missile's First Test

LANDS ON TARGET 4,800 Miles Away

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A Minuteman missile, America's hope for a push-button war weapon, scored an amazing success on its first test flight today.

A jubilant Air Force reported 20 minutes after the 11 a. m. EST launching that all three stages had fired successfully and that the rocket had landed on target in the south Atlantic Ocean, more than 4,800 miles away.

The Air Force had gone all out on the initial firing of this second generation intercontinental range missile which will grow the countryside on hard-to-find railroad trains, or stand posted in hardened underground holes, ready for firing on instant notice.

General Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, called the success "one of the most significant steps this nation has ever taken toward gaining intercontinental missile supremacy in the critical years just ahead."

Never before had so many warhead components been tested on a first launching here. All three fuel stages, the guidance system and nose cone were tested today. (Continued On Page 11)

Latin America Gets Immediate Attention

WASHINGTON (AP)—Latin America, an area of deep concern in President Kennedy's State of the Union message, is getting immediate attention from the new administration.

For example:
1. A new, high-level agency, headed by Adolf A. Berle Jr., a Franklin D. Roosevelt brain trust, has been named to handle Latin American affairs.

2. A food for peace mission to south of the border may be named early next week and may go on tour before the end of the month.

Two days ago, Kennedy in his message to Congress lamented Cuba's Communist leanings. He said broad action was needed to aid all Latin American nations. Late Tuesday, Berle's task force was announced. He has been at work at the State Department for several days.

The task force, according to an informed source, will have the broadest powers ever given any agency for dealing with Latin American affairs.

Indications are the force will deal with economic aid and financial assistance, cultural and social matters, and apparently will have charge of U. S. activity in the Organization of American States.

On the interdepartmental front with Berle will be: Theodore Achilles, counselor of the State Department; Thomas Mann, assistant secretary of state for Inter-American affairs; William P. Gandy, deputy assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs, and Lincoln Gordon, an economics professor at Harvard University.

Editorial Comment

Out Of The Limelight

President Kennedy would seem to have at least a double purpose in declaring his preference for quiet diplomacy.

In the short range he wants to forestall any quick rush to the summit with Soviet Premier Khrushchev. It is his view that a stiffening of America's defense posture is required before we will be equipped to go to the summit on a footing suitable to our objectives.

Kennedy also is anxious to avoid early meetings even with Allied heads of government. His administration is currently engaged in the exploration and development of policies and programs. With the approaches still so nebulous, it is no time to sit down with Prime Minister Macmillan, Chancellor Adenauer or President De Gaulle.

Beyond these immediate ends, however, the President appears bent on a general upgrading of the diplomatic corps.

The intent to rely more heavily on what are called "normal diplomatic channels"—meaning diplomats at the ambassadorial level and even lower—represents a distinct turning away from the highly publicized personal diplomacy that came into vogue in World War II under Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Drama and excitement inevitably surrounded any kind of summit meeting. This was perhaps all to the good, to the extent that it stirred general world public concern for the issues of war and peace.

But there have been unhappy by-products. In too many quarters such high level meetings have come to be viewed as the be-all and end-all of diplomacy.

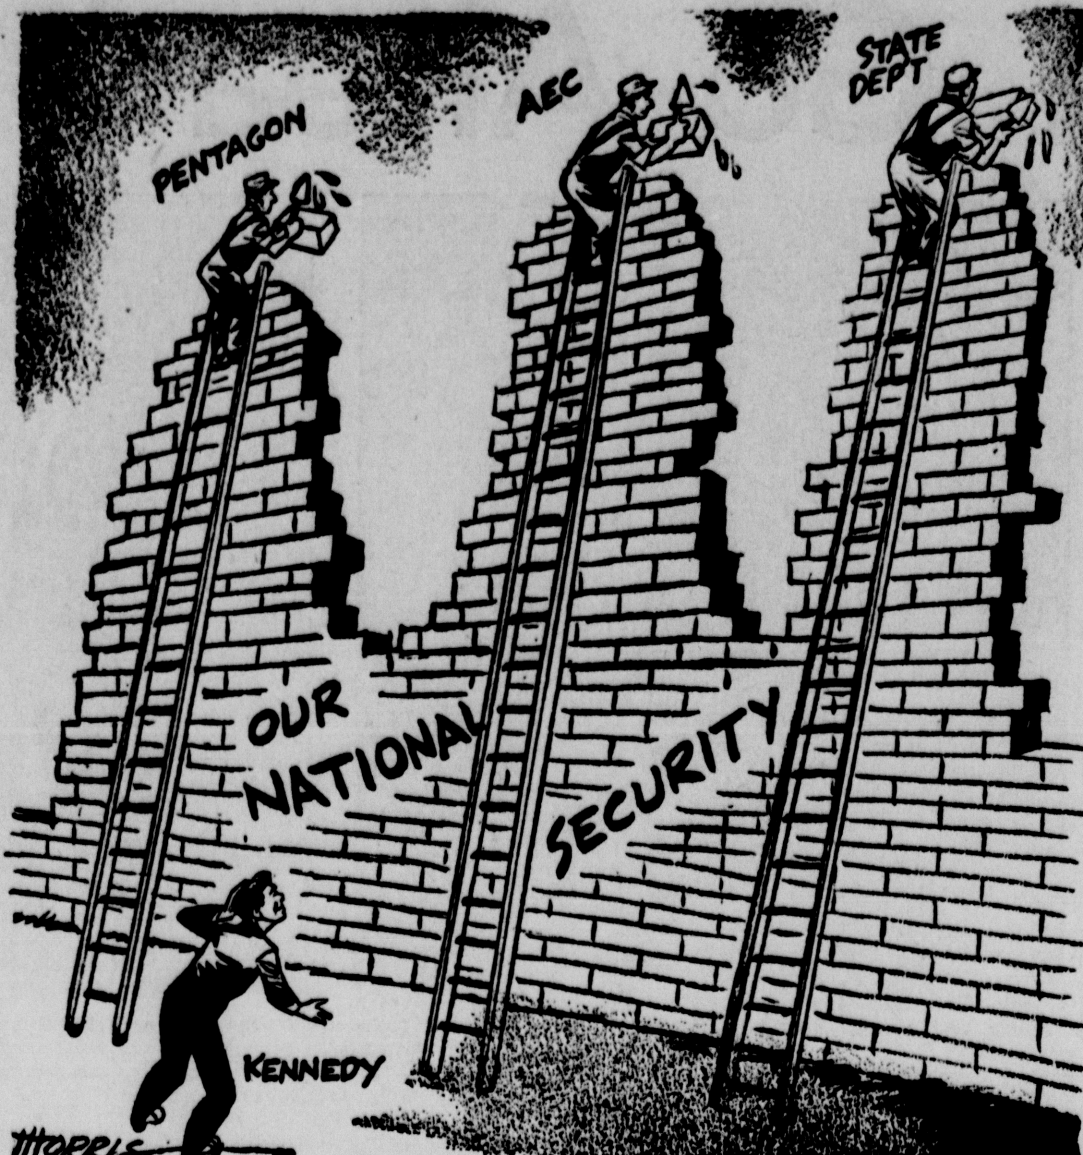

The truth is that by their very nature, summit conferences can seldom come to grips with more than the surface aspects of vital policy. Most issues are so complex they require weeks and weeks of detailed negotiation at the technical as well as at the high policy level.

Worse still, summit meetings are held in a goldfish bowl wired for sound. Almost any position taken must be a position adhered to. The natural resiliency of true diplomatic negotiation is impossible to attain in the spotlight glare.

This does not mean there is never any point to a summit meeting. In the proper circumstances it is obviously useful for heads of state, both in friendly and in opposing camps, to exchange views personally. It is also valuable for them on critical occasions to put their personal stamp on a major world diplomatic settlement.

But the hard fundamentals of diplomacy may be best achieved in the quiet channels where the play of public light is not so bright and cold as to freeze the diplomats in rigid posture.

Chart 'Progress Alliance' To Help Latin Americans

BY PETER EDSON
Written For NEA
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — A new "Alliance for Progress" apparently will be the Kennedy administration's successor to F.D.R.'s "Good Neighbor Policy" toward Latin America.

Kennedy's call for this "Alliance for Progress" in his inaugural address has a significant background. A month ago at Harvard, a conference of a dozen big businessmen with an equal number of big brain professor types was held to plan a new inter-American partnership. The meeting was arranged by Foreign Policy Clearing House of Washington, a group organized three years ago to bring private research findings to the attention of government policy makers.

The short report drawn up at the close of this conference was titled "Alliance for Progress." It called for a new course of action in Latin-American relations which would produce an impact comparable to the Marshall Plan for Europe.

THE REPORT OUTLINES A SERIES of sweeping reforms in which it is recommended that the United States take the lead "to assist free men and free governments in casting off the chains of poverty," as the President summed up the situation in his inaugural.

The Foreign Policy Clearing House meeting at Harvard was presided over by J. Wilner Sundelson of Ford Motor International. Other leading business executives included Merck President Antoine T. Knoppers, Johns-Manville Vice President Dudley Colton, United Fruit Vice President Jasper A. Baker, Whirlpool International Vice President Robert Mitchell.

Among the intellectuals attending were Lincoln Gordon of Harvard's Graduate School of Business, Hans Morgenthau of Harvard's Political Science Department, Walt W. Rostow of MIT Center for International Studies, William B. Dale of Stanford Research Institute.

The report of this group is not, strictly speaking, one of the "task force" studies initiated by President Kennedy. But through Gordon, Rostow, Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges, Undersecretary of State Chester Bowles and others, the report was brought to Kennedy's attention.

The fact that all members of a mixed group such as this signed the report is taken as an indication that both big business and the experts on government and international relations will support its far-reaching recommendations.

IN EFFECT, THEY HAND the President gigantic problems of administration to carry out. Here are a few highlights:

"A constructive course for the social revolution in Latin America is feasible only through an infusion of outside capital of major proportions, both public and private."

PRICE STABILIZATION pacts like the International Coffee Agreement are suggested for other Latin-American exports. An extremely large coffee crop in Brazil this year is cited as an example of the kind of crisis that must be met.

"It is clear that the United States and other nations should make their markets increasingly available to Latin American export products," the report points out in calling attention to the need for a more rapid growth rate for export earnings.

Wholesale disarmament in Latin America is recommended. "The present level of expenditures on military establishments is incompatible with limited financial resources available."

Finally, the report declares: "It is imperative to upgrade drastically U.S. diplomatic and consular representation in Latin America. Professionally competent younger men with sympathetic understanding of the revolutionary ferment are needed."

The World Today

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — The new speaks, but the old is with us. President Kennedy tried a lot of fish with the state of the Union Message to Congress. But in some ways it sounded like a record eight years old.

Kennedy gave a sense of action by promising it. But that's the last message of its kind this year in which he can simply promise action. From now on, in messages proposing specific programs, he must act.

He indicted President Dwight D. Eisenhower's administration—without saying it in so many words—with his gloomy picture of the situation he inherited at home and abroad.

This somber outlook provides an air of urgency for what he will now have to ask Congress to approve. It's a good weapon to induce action but whether it convinced Congress is yet to be seen.

There is also political benefit in describing domestic and foreign affairs in a dim light. The Kennedy administration thus puts itself in a position to take credit for any improvement.

This is just about what Eisenhower did when he took office eight years ago in describing the problems he inherited from the Truman administration.

Some of Kennedy's words — "I speak today in an hour of national peril" and "the outcome is by no means certain" and "the present state of our economy is disturbing"—were in strange contrast with the almost sunny State of the Union Eisenhower saw in his message to Congress Jan. 12.

But more startling, in a way, are the similarities between the problems Kennedy saw in his first State of the Union message and the ones Eisenhower saw facing him in his first message to Congress on Feb. 2, 1953.

For Kennedy, intentionally or not, in effect was saying that his dilemmas now were dilemmas which Eisenhower said confronted him, promised to solve, but didn't.

Take the two men on foreign affairs:

Eight years ago Eisenhower said, "This administration has begun the definition of a new positive foreign policy."

Kennedy Monday: "We must re-examine and revise our whole arsenal of tools" in dealing with other nations.

Eisenhower: "Our policy will be designed to foster the advent of practical unity in Western Europe."

Kennedy: "The unity of NATO has been weakened by economic rivalry and partially eroded by national interests."

Eight years ago Eisenhower said, "The policy we pursue will recognize the truth that no single country, even one so powerful as ours, can alone defend the liberty of all nations threatened by Communist aggression."

Kennedy: "No Atlantic power can meet on its own the mutual problems now facing us in defense, foreign aid, monetary reserves, and a host of other areas."

Take the two men on the military:

Eight years ago Eisenhower said, "We must avoid waste and duplication in our armed services."

Kennedy said among other things that "faulty estimates and duplication have all made it difficult to assess accurately how adequate — or inadequate — our defenses really are."

And even on farming:

Eight years ago Eisenhower said, "One of the difficult problems which face the new administration is that of the slow, irregular decline of farm prices."

Kennedy: "Since 1951 farm income has been squeezed down by 25 per cent."

There was nothing new in the various steps and remedies Kennedy said he will propose soon. He had talked of them before, promised them before. To a number of them there is tough opposition in Congress.

He'll have to be judged years from now not only on his leadership in getting a conservative, often balky, Congress to make his promises a reality.

Raisins and Cider Glorify a Duck

SUCCULENT appeal of roast duck is heightened by using raisins and apples in the stuffing and cider in the baking.

GAYNOR MADDOX
Written For NEA

Ever eat a transcontinental roast duck? Time you enjoyed one. This recipe combines duck from Long Island, raisins from Fresno, Calif., and cider from the pungent orchards of New Jersey—or any other apple producing state.

Duck A La Fresno
(Serves 2 to 3)
1 duck (4 to 5 pounds)
2 tablespoons margarine
1 cup chopped celery
1 cup raisins
1 teaspoon salt
4 tart apples, peeled, cored and quartered
11 cups cider (about)
11 tablespoons flour
1 cup golden raisins
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
Clean duck. Make stuffing as follows: melt margarine, add celery and cook until it is soft. Add raisins, salt and apples. Stuff duck, skewer vent and truss for roasting. Brush with margarine and bake on rack in roasting pan in a moderately hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 20 minutes or until breast begins to brown; turn and roast until back is brown. Place again on its back, add 1 cup cider to pan and reduce heat to 375 degrees F. Continue cooking for 1 1/2 hours or until done when tested with a kitchen fork, basting frequently with liquid in pan and adding more cider as it cooks down. When done, remove duck to serving platter. Pour liquid from pan into pint measuring cup, skim off 2 tablespoons fat and return to roasting pan. Skim off and discard remaining fat from measure and add enough cider to make 1 1/2 cups of liquid. Reheat fat in pan, add flour and cook until it is brown. Add liquid and cook until it thickens, stirring in all the brown clinging to pan. Add golden raisins and lemon rind. Season to taste with salt and white pepper.

  - They have a keen interest in what is going on in the world and keep themselves well-informed on world affairs?
  - They make light of their troubles and much prefer to talk about pleasant subjects than about depressing ones?
  - They have plenty to do to keep them busy?
  - They are sympathetic and understanding instead of being highly critical of others?
  - They have a sense of humor and can even poke fun at themselves?
  - They have a "let's not get excited" attitude toward life's little misfortunes, for having seen big troubles they aren't too impressed with small crises?
  - They can get ready to go anywhere in nothing flat—and so have plenty of opportunities for companionship?
  - They all take pride in doing something exceptionally well?
  - They get real pleasure out of helping others?
  - They are always looking forward to something?
- It must be more than coincidence that the young-in-heart share so many attitudes. Could it be that their particular attitudes toward life and living would keep anyone young?

Public Health Officers: Conscientious Guardians

BY H. T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Some adults still continue to look on representatives of local state or the U.S. Public Health Services as if they were truant officers. Yet there are no more dedicated men and women in any branch of the public welfare. And none who should be made more welcome.

For it is partially through their combined efforts, for example, that each of us can motor from the Atlantic to the Pacific coasts and from the Canadian to the Mexican borders without ever having to expose ourselves and our families to Greasy Spoon Restaurants, Sloppy Joe Taverns, Fleabag overnight stops with filthy facilities.

Three reports that arrived in a single mail illustrate the wide range of public health officers. The first, from the New Hampshire Board of Health, announces proudly that Bang's disease, the equivalent of human brucellosis or undulant fever, has been completely eradicated in the State's livestock. It would be impossible to overestimate the magnitude of this achievement whose accomplishment has not, to my knowledge, been called to the public notice.

Not only does this point the way to elimination of a milkborne disease that is difficult to diagnose, resistant to treatment and crippling to thousands of our people, but it also may provide an annual saving of $25,000,000 to livestock producers.

The second report comes from the North Carolina Health Board. As the result of a tuberculosis control program that has been actively pursued since 1945 the death rate from the White Plague has been reduced from 7.5 per 100,000 population to 4.6, between 1954 and 1959. This reduction of about 40 per cent has been paralleled by the reduction in the disease rate that fell from 33 to 24 per 100,000 population. Again, quite aside from what this accomplishment means in terms of human suffering and incapacitation, it points the way to reducing the national cost of tuberculosis that stands at the staggering annual figure of $725,032,000.

Against these positive achievements, made possible through public co-operation, is the alarming report by the Public Health Service's Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Ga. As the result of lack of public co-operation, the past three years have witnessed an incidence of infectious syphilis of alarming proportions, and this despite the fact that syphilis is far easier to prevent and cure than either brucellosis or tuberculosis.

The cities with the most shameful records of better than a 300 per cent increase in the past three years include New York, Washington, Miami, Newark, N.J., New Orleans, Oakland and Long Beach, Calif., and Seattle, Wash.

Confession Is Good For The Soul—Just Mail The Bill, Doc

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Monologue in a psychiatrist's office:

"No, doc, I don't need any deep analysis. I just got a problem I want to get off my chest."

"Let me just stretch out on this couch and be comfortable while I tell you. It won't take long."

"My problem is about women—or rather wives. I want to know why all my friends' wives hate me."

"Maybe I'd better start at the beginning."

"My name is Charlie. I am 46 years old and a bachelor. I am a very happy bachelor, too, except for one thing. My friends' wives are all mad at me."

"This grieves me very much. It has for years, because there doesn't seem to be anything I can do about it."

"Doc, you know some bachelors are women haters and blame women for all the trouble in the world. Well, I'm not that kind of bachelor.

"I liked the first lady I ever met—my mother—and I've liked every woman I ever met since then. I never met a woman I couldn't find a reason for liking."

"I have made a lifelong study of women, and have always accorded them every respect. In their presence I am never fresh or forward. I am always the soul of gentility and courtesy and gallantry."

"I light their cigarettes for them at cocktail parties. I help them through revolving doors. On muddy or snowy days I stand aside for a lady I have never even met, and let her have the taxi that stopped for me."

"I have never ridiculed women's minds. I admire their many notable qualities, and encourage their aspirations and their dreams. I can even endure listening to a woman talk about baseball or politics without yawning."

"Yet all my friends wives despise me, doc."

"It isn't because I don't pay them devoted attention, because I do. I send them flowers on their birthdays. I'm always happy to show up and bail them out if they unexpectedly need an extra man at dinner. I've even taken their kids to the dentist so they could go to a matinee."

"But still they hate me. You know why, doc? I'll tell you. 'Because they think I am a bad influence on their husbands. Every time a married man in the circle of my acquaintance takes it into his head to spend a night on the town, his wife when he comes home, 'So, you've been out with good-old-Charlie again! What has he been leading you into now?'"

"The truth is, of course, I never even saw them on the night in question—or any other night when he was foolhardy."

"No sensible bachelor wants to clutter up his evenings bawling around with a wild-eyed married man out on a spree. I'd go to the opera first."

"But these wives invariably greet their returning bachelors with, 'So, you couldn't say no to good-old-Charlie, could you? All he has to do is put an idea in your head, and off you go. Don't you think you have at least some responsibility to your own wife and children?'"

"As I say doc, I have spent my life studying women. But there's one thing I still can't understand. 'Where do wives get this strange, mixed-up loyalty? Why do they always think someone else is leading their dumb husbands astray?'"

"Why don't they blame him? He's the one. Why is it no wife will ever face this truth?"

"Why, doc, why?"

So They Say

Instead of being denounced as eggheads, scientists should be looked up to for their intellectual achievements. One of the major faults in our society today is that we tend to equate money with merit.

Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, new head of Atomic Energy Commission.

"I can't understand it. Nor can I understand how Tennessee Williams can go on Mike Wallace's TV show and tell everything about himself. Here is an intelligent, sensitive man who chooses to tell his own problems to the world. I wish someone would tell me why."

Impossible. Marion barely tolerated publicity in the days when he was having fun playing the motorcycle-riding character. He passed that stage and became more serious about life. He grew bitter about press coverage of his struggles with ex-wife Anna Kashfi. Now he has stringent rules.

"I won't answer any personal questions about myself," he has said. "If a friend starts to read something about me, I stop him. It makes me physically ill."

Knowing his distaste for the spotlight, you can understand why Brando likes Tahiti. Tahiti also likes him. Tomorrow we'll find out how he lives here.

THE fear of man lays a snare, but he who trusts in the Lord is safe.—Proverbs 29:25.

Faith is the setting of the entire self Godward.—Bishop Horace Dubose.

THOUGHTS

By and large, I think the Russian government has every intention of living up to any agreement it may make on nuclear tests or in the larger fields of disarmament.

No cost estimate is given, but the inference is high.

"The first incentive is to rid ourselves of the notion that we can underwrite Latin America's social and economic revolution solely through 'bankable' projects, administered by banks. Non-bankable loans and grants are needed to support social programs."

Land and tax reforms are mentioned as examples.

In Hollywood

EDSON'S NOTE (AP) We go to South Seas for a look at movie making in that tropical paradise, Tahiti. There MGM is doing a remake of the classic "Mutiny On the Bounty." The star, playing Fletcher Christian, is Marlon Brando. Following is the first of three articles: "Brando in Tahiti."

BY BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

AROUND H.M.A. BOUNTY, off Tahiti (AP)—Marlon Brando fastened a rubber band around his slightly graying locks to keep them from flying in the wind.

"What a bore," said the actor, his hair grown long for his role as Fletcher Christian in "Mutiny On the Bounty."

Brando leaned against the rigging of the majestic three-masted, anchored off Papeete under a leaden sky. A hundred film makers were walking at $25,000 the day—just another day in the life of the movie business.

Brando seemed little concerned about the delay, nor did he appear to know that the film company would be returning to Hollywood early because of the rainy season.

The company took a chance that the rains would come late, but they didn't, and its members have begun heading home. Brando and crew will return when the rains end.

On the first day of shooting 10 weeks ago, he remarked to director Carol Reed: "I'm sorry to see this day come. It just means one day sooner that we will be going back to the states."

He gazed at the Tahitian shore with its groves of curved-trunked coconuts and the green hills and purple peaks beyond. "I'll hate to leave," he said. "This is the first time in 10 years that I've been able to feel comfortable among people."

In Tahiti, Brando can walk the streets unmolested. It's not because the people don't know who he is; many do. But Tahitians never bother their fellow man, and Brando has achieved an anonymity he hasn't known since he became a star.

Some may think it unusual for a man to be a movie star and want to remain anonymous. But then, as the world well knows, Brando is not the usual kind of star. Director Reed, who has an Englishman's restraint of expression, has said, "There is no more exciting, no greater actor in the world today." And he said it before a group of distinguished British actors appearing in "Mutiny."

As Brando relaxed aboard the Bounty, the talk turned to the recent, highly publicized marital split of one of his former co-stars.

"Imagine—talking about their personal affairs for print!" he said wonderingly. "These are intimate matters that concern themselves only, and yet they are sharing them with the world."

"I can't understand it. Nor can I understand how Tennessee Williams can go on Mike Wallace's TV show and tell everything about himself. Here is an intelligent, sensitive man who chooses to tell his own problems to the world. I wish someone would tell me why."

Impossible. Marion barely tolerated publicity in the days when he was having fun playing the motorcycle-riding character. He passed that stage and became more serious about life. He grew bitter about press coverage of his struggles with ex-wife Anna Kashfi. Now he has stringent rules.

"I won't answer any personal questions about myself," he has said. "If a friend starts to read something about me, I stop him. It makes me physically ill."

Assets Of Savings And Loan Reach New High

At the annual meeting of the Jacksonville Savings and Loan Association Tuesday night, the president reported net savings in 1960 of $12,836,558.81, an increase of $391,825.07 over 1959.

The report also showed assets of the association have reached a new high of $14,724,418.53, representing a gain of 1029 new accounts and making a total of 7014 members in fourteen different states and five foreign countries.

Dividends totaling $615,447.20 were paid these investors. Home loans increased in number and amounts totaling $1,222,927.26 in 1960 with 304 new families starting toward home ownership.

This is equal to nine homes per mile from Jacksonville to Springfield. Total home loans now exceed $12,127,189.84.

Reserves have increased to $1,365,559.69, or 18.3 per cent more than a year ago. President A. B. Applebee predicts a "good year" for home improvement loans and a slower start on new construction due to the carry over of homes built but not sold in 1960.

Elect Directors, Officers

The following directors were elected for the ensuing year: A. B. Applebee, A. W. Applebee, Frank Baker, Hugh Gibson, M. C. Hook, J. A. Long, A. G. Pearce, Lee A. Sullivan, Jr., and H. A. Williamson. ## Electric Space Engine

The Little Booster To Mars

By JERRY SHEEHAN
Written For NEA

CLEVELAND, Ohio —(NEA)—A rocket engine without a single moving part and less power than a model electric train one day may send us zooming through outer space at 62 million miles per hour or faster.

Such an engine is being tested at Lewis Research Center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) in Cleveland, Ohio.

Scientists there envision a larger model capable of propelling men to Mars with about the force—"thrust"—of a woman pushing a baby carriage.

This eventually could destroy the present space age image of powerful rockets continuously exhaling titanic clouds of fire and smoke.

Scientists make the engine work by electrically bombarding particles of vaporized mercury. Goaded by high voltage electrical blasts, these electrified particles (ions) of mercury shoot out the tail of the engine at speeds up to 300,000 m.p.h. Electron guns keep the ions charging out into space and prevent them from turning back into the engine.

If the engine were mounted in a rocket, the rearward race of the ions would exert a tiny forward thrust of the ship. And in gravity-free space, the slightest tap will send an object moving ahead, conceivably forever unless there is a countertap, reports William R. Mickelsen, a scientist working on this project.

Also, because acceleration in space is constant, the silent, unseen, steady thrust of billions of ions could build up to tremendous speeds, theoretically almost to the speed of light, about 186,300 miles per second.

Here's how Mickelsen describes a theoretical electric rocket flight to Mars:

Eight men board a rocket weighing 175 tons. Its engine draws electric power from a small nuclear reactor. The craft either is lifted by a huge conventional rocket into orbit around the earth or it is assembled piecemeal in space.

To free the craft from the earth's gravity, the crew starts up the electric engine. Nothing seems to happen. The 35 pounds of thrust are hardly noticed. Days and weeks pass.

Eventually, the rocket's speed increases and its orbit widens. Each swing around the globe carries it farther away. After 70 days, the space craft coasts at 70,000 m.p.h. away from the earth's gravitational pull and into a vast orbit intended to intersect Mars, 35 million miles away from Earth.

To return home, the craft reverses the procedure. The round trip could take as little as 500 days—about half the time a conventional "fire" rocket would need for the trip.

These electric engines operate at 80 per cent efficiency under research tests compared to the 30 per cent efficiency of passenger cars. Since there are no moving parts in the engine proper, emergency repairs in outer space would be simplified.

Mickelsen foresees unmanned space flight for the electric rockets in about two years.

Ashland Youth FFA Section's Star Farmer

ASHLAND—Preston Newell, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Newell, of this city, and senior at the local high school, was named Star Farmer, Section 14, Future Farmers of America, at the group's annual awards meeting held at the Elks Club in Springfield last week.

Young Preston's farming program started three and a half years ago when he entered Ashland high. It began with the purchase of one feeder calf. He added three sows and six litters of pigs the first year. The youth continued to add to these enterprises until he now has one-half interest in a feeder cattle enterprise and ewe flock. He also owns 10 sows and gilts with 40 head of pigs.

Preston has carried out many improvement projects on the farm near Ashland where he resides with his parents. He has built and painted new yard fences, put in new basement steps and other work to improve the beauty of the home.

Preston is the third member of the Newell family to take part in Future Farmer programs. He has headed several committees and has supervised many of his chapter's activities, according to his vocational ag instructor, Neal J. Coyle.

Ends Navy Boat
Arthur G. Lynn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Lynn, of this city, has graduated from the recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Graduation exercises mark the end of nine weeks of "boot camp" including a full dress parade and review before military officials and civilian dignitaries.

In nine weeks of instruction, the "raw recruit" is developed into a Navy Blue-jacket, ready for duty with the fleet. He will go on USS Forrestal.

The Berea Ag 4-H club met Sunday night at the Yatesville school at 6 p.m. for a potluck supper for members and their families. Following the supper, the business meeting was held with pledges led by Terry Bloomfield. Roll call was answered by "your new year's resolution and your project."

The president announced the dance committee, Junior Leaders Alan Petefish, Mark Slice and Bob Reiser. The dance will be held March 4th.

The federation members gave a report. Safety officer, Bob Reiser, gave out First Aid booklets. A window display committee, composed of Ed and Pam Cowman, Alan Petefish and Connie Anderson, were appointed by the president.

Talks were given by Mark Slice on "History of 4-H" and by Doris Petefish on "Selecting and Feeding Lambs."

A demonstration was given by Jerry Kinnett on "Notching Ears of Pigs."

The club presented a gift to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Norfleet, former assistant leader. The Norfleets are moving to Jacksonville in the near future.

Alexander Club
To Have Frolic
Day On Feb. 22

ALEXANDER—The Alexander Woman's Club met Jan. 25 at Hamilton's in Jacksonville with Mrs. Robert Foster the hostess. The meeting opened with the pledge to the flag and collect.

The vice president, Mrs. Dorothy Walsh, presided, the president, Mrs. Fulton, being unable to be present.

Routine business was conducted with the secretary's report by Mrs. J. A. Zeller. Mrs. Foster was in charge of the program, two interesting contests, won by Mrs. W. C. Kumble, Mrs. Walsh, Mrs. Zeller and Mrs. Earl Muckleston.

Dainty refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. The next session will be Feb. 22, Frolic Day with Mrs. Louise Beerup hostess. Mrs. Beerup and Mrs. George Fulton will have charge of the program.

Potluck Thursday
The WSCS of Alexander Methodist church will have a potluck at the home of Mrs. Louise Beerup Thursday, Feb. 2 at noon. Mrs. Bess Kumble is the co-hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Seymour and son, Jeff, Terre Haute, Ill., spent the past weekend with Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Keenan here, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Seymour at Franklin.

Also visited the C. E. Keenans, Alexander and the Vincent Hermes family, New Berlin. Recent guests in the Scott Steagall home were Mr. and Mrs. Kirchoffer and sons of Ashton.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Kumble drove to Joliet the past week to visit at the Alfred Coe home taking the couple's young daughter, Cathy Lynn, home after two weeks visit here.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wood, who resides with her granddaughter, Mrs. Marvin Webber and children, at Jacksonville, spent the past weekend at her home here.

Mrs. Virginia Evans, Roodhouse and Mrs. Vada Soper, Jacksonville, spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Keenan.

To Remember Tough Lessons, Use The 3-Times Over System

BY LESLIE J. NASON, Ed.D.,
with HARRY KARN

Much of the knowledge you are expected to absorb must be obtained through reading.

But here's a very sad fact. Most of what nearly everybody reads evaporates quickly from his memory.

In today's chat, we are going to give you a plan which will help anchor in your mind a large part of what you read so it will be there ready for use when needed.

The outcome of reading by haphazard methods is so bad that we sometimes wonder why people bother at all. Tests have shown that a so-called good reader can get 20 per cent of the ideas in an article in the first reading, but that a week later little of the information remains lodged in his mind.

You'll never be able to plug all the holes in this sieve called the human brain. But you can plug up many of them if you go about it in the right way.

George told us he couldn't answer questions on tests to the satisfaction of his teacher. We took a look at his papers. They revealed that George wasn't getting or retaining precise meanings from his textbook.

Our advice to George was simple.

Read it three times over.

One, skim through the entire assignment to get a general idea of what the chapter is about.

Two, keep this general idea in mind and read the assignment again with the air of fitting the information and that idea together.

Three, having fitted the big idea and the information together in a main pattern, read for details and exact meanings and associate them with the proper larger items in the general outline.

Thurman Wade, the speed-reader we told you about in the first article, compares reading with the working of a jigsaw puzzle:

"You don't progress very fast if you scatter the pieces on the table and try to fit them together by trial and error.

"The smart jigsaw puzzler first takes a good look at the picture on the box. Is it a landscape? Then he sees that the blue pieces are going to fit into the sky and the green pieces into the trees, and that spotted pieces represent the grazing cow.

"He conditions himself to what is coming, and he's ready to work the puzzle. It's the same with reading. You have to get that big idea before you can fit the reading material into its correct perspective."

But what about our hero, George?

George practiced reading by the three steps described above for 10 days. He then took another test.

At the end of George's paper the professor wrote:

"Good, at least you've learned to think precisely."

Hitting on All 10

George, who had been earning "D's" up to this point, received a grade of "B" for the semester. He had learned to read for meaning instead of just gazing at words. He had learned to use his entire thinking space while reading.

Few persons use their brains to full capacity.

Of the brain's conscious thinking space only one-tenth (just a hall closet, nothing more) is needed to listen to the actual words said by a speaker. What happens to the rest of the floor space?

It doesn't stand vacant. Something moves in. The space is filled from some source, from the sights and sounds around you, from the radio, the TV, the honking of cars in the street.

It may be occupied by feelings of hunger, frustration, or weariness, or thoughts of ambition or resentment. It may be filled with apprehension, fear, worry or a jumble of all these things.

You should—and you can—fill in those improperly filled spaces with thoughts of your own choosing and employ them in definite and appropriate tasks of learning.

Thus, reading should be done against some background of purpose. If it is, full attention can be focused on the assignment at hand and an efficient use made of time.

Summary:

1. Read to get the purpose, the big idea, the general picture.

2. Read again to fit the material into that picture.

3. Read for details and exact meanings.

Take a look at the South hand only. You respond one spade to your partner's opening bid. He raises you to two spades. What is your rebid, if any?

Your hand certainly rates a rebid. You have 12 high card points and a good five-card spade suit. If you feel conservative you can invite game by bidding three spades, but if you decide to take the bull by the horns and jump right to game no one can criticize you.

Now, see what happened to poor South. North was one of those trap bidders. North had opened one diamond quite properly and had merely bid two spades at his first turn to rebid. Incidentally, two spades is correct, but needless to say he would have bid two spades with a weaker hand.

Anyway, when South jumped to four spades North sprung the trap on him. He said to himself, "I have a maximum two spade raise. My partner has jumped to game. There may be a slam." Then North bid five spades. Needless to say South passed, but the damage had been done. West cashed two heart tricks and shifted to a club whereupon South had to lose a diamond trick, and game and rubber.

Mrs. H. C. Rose Is Guild Hostess

The January meeting of the local Chapter of the Valparaiso University Guild was held at the home of Mrs. Herbert C. Rose, Friday evening, Jan. 28.

Those in attendance were: Mrs. Alma Roegge, Mrs. Earl Boucher, Mrs. P. J. Davidmeyer, Mrs. Leland Perbix, Mrs. Lucille Eberhardt, Mrs. Clarence Schewe, Mrs. William Davidmeyer, Mrs. George P. Oberbater.

Mrs. Rose opened the meeting with prayer, and presided over the business meeting. Mrs. P. J. Davidmeyer was elected as secretary, and Mrs. Lucille Eberhardt, treasurer, of the local chapter. The members expressed their sincere thanks to Mrs. Elmer Roegge and Mrs. Clarence Schewe for their faithful work in these offices during the past year.

Mrs. Rose was appointed as delegate to attend the mid-winter meeting of the National Executive Board meeting of the Valparaiso University Guild, to be held at Valparaiso, Ind., Feb. 24 and 25.

Valpo University evening will be observed at the April meeting for the young people at Salem Lutheran school. A student from Valparaiso University will be invited as the speaker. The president appointed the following committee to be in charge of Valpo Evening: Mrs. Leland Perbix, Chapin; Mrs. Charles Marshall, Winchester; Mrs. Carlton Schumacher, Chapin; Mrs. Lucille Eberhardt; and Mrs. Clarence Schewe, Alexander.

After the business meeting, the members enjoyed social activities, during which Mrs. Rose served delicious refreshments.

NESTING MOP
CINCINNATI (AP)—Three years ago Mrs. Maude Rankin hung up a mop on a back porch nail to dry but she never got to use it again.

A couple of robins picked the scrubbing end of the mop as a place to build a nest and raise a family. They kept coming back each year.

How does she clean her floors now? "I get down on my hands and knees and scrub," she said. "Gets cleaner that way, anyway."

A Modest, Not Mostest, New Hostess

By JERRY BENNETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Mrs. George Yandes Wheeler, the first person to lose a dinner party for President John Kennedy after his inauguration, wishes people would stop calling her a hostess. She doesn't want that type of recognition.

MRS. WHEELER: Her big interest is art.

Until word got around about her big inauguration dinner for the President, his wife, the Cabinet and more than 50 Kennedy friends—30 guests in all—Mrs. Wheeler was virtually unknown in the Washington party scene.

Then overnight she found herself heralded as the fastest rising star of Washington's social galaxy which currently revolves around former ambassadors to Luxembourg, Perle Meeta, and Gwen Calritz, wife of a prominent local contractor and real estate operator.

Not so, insists Mrs. Wheeler, pretty, young, brown-haired wife of a wealthy electronics consultant to the Radio Corporation of America and mother of four children. "I'm not trying to gain a reputation as a hostess or friend of the Kennedys," she says.

"That wasn't the point of the party at all. I didn't want it taken that way. It's embarrassing."

Far from considering the event a great social coup, Mrs. Wheeler views it as simply a tribute to two friends. She explains that both she and her husband have known President and

Mrs. Kennedy for years. She first met the President casually in New Orleans, her home town, during the 1930s. Her husband, a former RCA vice president, went to prep school with him. When the Kennedys and Wheelers moved to Washington, they became good friends.

During the election campaign, Mrs. Wheeler ran the speakers bureau for the Citizens for Kennedy and John-she made a whirlwind tour of several Western and Midwestern states, urging voters to cast their ballots for the Democrat.

Mrs. Wheeler says that she has enjoyed politics ever since she was a little girl. Her father was legislative assistant, for a former congressman from New Orleans, who lived in Washington for several years.

But Mrs. Wheeler's principal interest, which means much more to her than hostessing, are art and social welfare work.

She runs a combination art school and gallery in Watch Hill, R. I., where she and her husband have a summer home. The school specializes in painting and ballet courses. Painting exhibitions and showings of abstract art films and Hollywood classics are also presented.

Mrs. Wheeler is an enthusiastic modern art collector and has decorated her beautiful Foxhall Road home with 25 expensive abstracts. She is also active in raising money for the National Cultural Center, now in the planning stage.

Her activities in the social welfare field have been limited lately to boosting the local Homemaker Service program. "But, since September I have hardly had time for anything but campaigning," she explains.

Mrs. Wheeler also enjoys golf, water skiing, boating and bowling. Every Sunday she, her husband and the children head for the nearby bowling alley to spend the afternoon.

Report Condition Of State Trooper Kicked By Steer

PITTSFIELD — X-rays have disclosed that state trooper Oliver Hollo, who was kicked by a steer last Thursday, does not have a fractured vertebrae as was feared at first, but suffers from a dislocation of a disc. It was reported at Barnes Hospital in St. Louis, and there is no paralysis. His condition Tuesday morning was good.

TIGT GUARDS
CAMDEN, S. C. — When raiders hit a big still near Camden, they found the human operators had fled leaving some natural guardians behind.

First, a flock of bees, apparently lousy from the mash, attacked. The officers countered with a smoke screen.

Then, from under the mash barrel, came a water moccasin, too much under the influence to crawl straight. The snake fell into the nearby creek and floated off downstream—too drunk to swim, said a raider.

It was decided an advisory council of farmers in the community should be selected to help plan and evaluate the work done in agricultural education.

A broadened program is to be worked out to include a year-round class for young farmers, who are getting established in farming, and a complete program for more adult farmers. Other work will be done in replanning the high school program. All of this expansion is to be done to keep the agricultural education in the community up-to-date with the rapidly changing agriculture of today.

Honor Couple Wed In Morgan 25 Years Ago

CARROLLTON—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carter who will observe their 25th wedding anniversary Wednesday, Feb. 1, were guests of honor at a carry in supper given Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Gerson.

Mr. Carter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louie Carter of White Hall, and Miss Ruby Driver, daughter of the late Charles Driver, Sr. and Mrs. Charles Driver of Carrollton, were married 25 years ago in the Jacksonville court house by Rev. C. E. Smith.

They have spent their married life on a farm and now reside south east of Carrollton. They have one daughter, Mrs. William Hodgerson and one son, Billy Carter both of Carrollton. They also have one grandson.

In the group Sunday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Brooks and son, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Martin and son, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Byland and son and Mr. and Mrs. John Carter Jr. and daughter.

WSCS Guests Of Murrayville Wesleyan Guild

MURRAYVILLE—The Wesleyan Service Guild of the Methodist church met Friday evening, Jan. 27th, at the home of Thelma Blimling with Bernice Harvey as co-hostess and members of the W.S.C.S. special guests.

The meeting was called to order by the president Mabel Seed and turned over to Hanna Waters who had charge of the worship service. The group sang "A Word of God Incarnate," followed by prayer and scripture.

Londa McKnelly gave as the program a tape recording and some letters received from her son Charles a missionary in Hong Kong. They told of many of the hardships endured and the need of Christianity there.

Roll Call was answered with a "New Year Resolution."

It was decided to have the next study each Sunday night in February. It will start at 7 o'clock each evening and the name of the book is "Basic Christian Beliefs."

Hanna Waters announced plans being made for the World Day of Prayer which will be observed in the Methodist church Friday evening Feb. 17th. Members of the Manchester church and the Baptist church are to be guests. All women of the community are urged to attend.

An offering was taken as a result of the first study course to help finance the sending of clothes to the needy in Hong Kong.

The Spiritual Life thought was given by Martha Joseph and after a special prayer by the president the meeting closed with the Guild benediction.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, assisted by Lana Blimling, during the social hour.

The next meeting will be on Thursday evening, Feb. 16th, with Bernice Harvey and Londa McKnelly as co-hostesses.

Guests present from the W.S.C.S. were Mrs. Tom Walker, Mrs. Arthur Wilson, Mrs. Robert Mutch, Mrs. Clifford Walker, Mrs. Edward Tendick, Mrs. R. V. Blimling, Mrs. Ethel Stringer, Mrs. Irene Atkinson, Mrs. F. J. Harvey, Mrs. Fred Simpson, Mrs. Sada Million, Mrs. M. J. Benscoter and Mrs. G. W. Hamilton.

Guest members present were Mabel Seed, Jane Rimbey, Bernice Harvey, Donna Heaton, Hanna Waters, Martha Joseph, Beverly Heaton, Londa McKnelly, Carolyn Heaton, Nellie Tendick, Charlotte Heaton and Thelma Blimling.

Murrayville News
Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Rimbey have spent the past week at the home of their son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. James Hart and family at Wapella.

The American Legion Auxiliary will meet Wednesday evening Feb. 1st at 7:30 o'clock at the Legion Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Heaton and family attended the open house in celebration of Mrs. Heaton's parents Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Weders Golden Wedding anniversary Sunday which was held at Sibert Hall in Winchester.

CALHOUN STUDENT WILL COMPETE IN DISTRICT CONTEST

HARDIN — Robert Snyder, a member of the Hardin F.F.A. chapter, has placed first in the Soil and Water Conservation program in Section 15, and will compete in the district awards program at Virginia, Ill., on Wednesday, Feb. 15. Sectional winners were announced at a Foundation Awards program at Franklin, Ill., last week.

Snyder placed 3rd in Dairy Production, and Jim Kiel, also a member of the local chapter, was 2nd in Farm and Home Beautification. Others entering projects were Tom Benz in Sheep Production and Farm Mechanics, and Jim Kiel in Corn Production. Snyder and Dale Benz were interviewed at Franklin for the State Farmer Degree, the winners of which will be announced on April 28.

Focus On Health—

Should Left-Overs Cool Before Being Stored?

By The Associated Press

Ready-to-serve foods, and left-overs, hot and cold workers, school lunches and eyesight all have a focus on health:

To The Ice Box

It's best to pop your left-overs into the refrigerator as soon as possible, hot or not, researchers report. Notions that the food should cool first are false.

The idea probably came from days when ice was used to cool the ice box and hot foods raised the temperature of the box and melted the ice.

But new studies show that disease-producing bacteria can grow in food from 44 degrees to 114 degrees fahrenheit. Cooking above 116 degrees kills the germs, and cooling to 42 degrees inhibits germ growth. Keeping foods, including pre-cooked, ready-to-serve types and vending machine foods, in the growth temperatures should be avoided.

School Lunch

How important is an adequate diet? A school lunch program offered by U. S. researchers in the highlands of Peru offers a clue.

After several years of adding up to 1,000 calories a day and needed vitamins to the almost completely vegetarian diet, researchers report weight gains double what they were at the beginning of the study.

Hot Or Cold

If you are a long-time Southerner, you'll get used to hot spells quicker—and you'll sweat less and stay cooler in hot weather than a visiting Northerner.

Scientists found this difference with young college students from

New England and Southern Florida. Life in the Southern climate seems to equip Southerners with better heat - regulating mechanisms.

When the armed services pick men for duty in hot areas, they might consider the individual's geographical origin as well as his physical fitness, scientists suggested.

Eye And Mind

Three-quarters of eye disorder cases involve some emotional conflict—often resulting in an abnormal, unrealistic sort of eye self-consciousness. This can lead to further, sometimes disabling symptoms, British doctors report.

Dream House Of Our Elders

FREEDOM HOUSE: An architect's concept on a low cost home for our elders.

By JERRY BENNETT

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — You may soon be able to build your dream house after you retire for as little as $9,000 plus the cost of a lot.

Architect Robert B. Waring of the Douglas Fir Plywood Assn. has designed a six-room compact home especially for people over 60. The use of inexpensive plywood which reduces labor costs makes the low price tag possible.

Called Freedom House, because it eliminates much of the cost of building a new home, the 1,084 sq. ft. structure was displayed for the first time at the White House Conference on Aging this month. The blueprints may soon be released to builders for nationwide construction.

Co-sponsors of the Washington display are the Douglas Fir Plywood Assn., the National Retired Teachers Assn., and the American Assn. of Retired Persons. But credit for conceiving the novel structure is the first place goes to Mary Cleverley, public housing administration commissioner for elderly housing.

Mrs. Cleverley got the idea when she saw pictures of a similar house advertised as the ideal vacation home. To her the structure looked like the solution to housing problems of the aged as well.

Statistics show that the "over 60" population totals about 23 million and will increase to 29 million by 1970. At least 18 million of these people are in low or middle income groups.

Most of these people have already raised families and would like to move into smaller, low upkeep homes. Yet most of the housing for retired people falls into one of three categories which often are unattractive to elderly, middle class, house hunters.

Luxury apartments for the wealthy, public housing for the indigent and private housing developments, often designed for disabled persons, generally are the only choices the elderly house hunters have.

Many elderly people, still in good health, resent the idea of living in homes built for the handicapped. Others dislike private housing developments because they feel that they are being segregated.

At a special housing conference here last year, Mrs. Cleverley suggested converting the vacation homes into low cost retirement dwellings that elderly people could build on lots of their own choosing. The result was architect Waring's plans and the White House Conference display model.

Freedom House has two bedrooms, a dining room, living room, kitchen and bath. Enclosed by its two wings are a courtyard and patio.

A garage and workroom combination which can also serve as storage space, is attached to the house.

Although Freedom House is not advertised especially for the handicapped, it does contain conveniences to make life easier for healthy and disabled persons alike.

For instance, electrical outlets are 18 inches from the floor to eliminate stooping. Master light switches are located near both entrances and in the master bedroom, making movement in the dark unnecessary.

A seat near the tub makes bathroom dressing more convenient. Grab-bars offer protection against falls when getting in or out of the tub.

Low counters, sink and stove make it possible for the housewife to sit while doing her work. All but a few kitchen cabinets can be reached from a sitting position. And the floors are non-skid.

COSTLY DRIVE

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — It cost Hilario Flores, 33, exactly $100 to drive seven blocks.

In the short drive he hit a parked car, left the scene of the accident, ran through three stop signs and hit a tree. He did it all without a driver's license. The fines added up to $100.

NEW YORK (AP) — The real debate concerning our loss of gold isn't whether the drain with its strain on the dollar should be stopped—that's taken for granted—but whether the measures proposed will do the job.

That's the view of a growing number of financial observers who daily grow more vocal on the problem which President Kennedy posed in his news conference and has tackled in his State of the Union message.

The United States can halt the outflow of gold and bring its international financial payments into balance. That also is taken for granted.

But then you get into the real dispute.

At one extreme are those who say that the dollar can be defended—not alone by bringing the dollar's overseas outgo and income into balance—but only if it is also protected at home by stabilizing prices and putting and keeping the U. S. Treasury on a balanced diet. In other words, by licking inflation, which was the original culprit in weakening and threatening the status of the dollar.

At the other extreme are those who hold that the gold loss isn't serious yet, is nearing an end anyway from natural causes, and steps already taken to trim overseas spending will make its end certain.

In between are those who hold that the loss of gold in the last three years is indeed serious and must be stopped, that half-way measures won't do it, but that the dollar isn't in present danger as scare stories might indicate.

President Kennedy sums up the problem this way: The over-all deficit in our balance of payments with the rest of the world increased by nearly $11 billion in the last three years. And holders of dollars abroad foreigners and Americans converted some $3 billion of that into gold once held by the Treasury.

All bank economists heard from agree with the President that the dollar must be maintained at its present level, which means the gold price must be kept at $35 an ounce.

On bank economists, Dr. Marcus Nadler, consultant to the Hanover Bank of New York, holds "only a rectification of the balance of payments deficit will bring to an end the large outflow of gold. All other measures are only temporary and do not go to the root of the problem."

But he insists that the U. S. gold stock is still large enough to meet all the legitimate requirements of the country. He holds that gold no longer plays a significant role as a basis for domestic credit, but that its principal function now is to effect international payments.

Dr. Nadler's thesis is: "The dollar problem is an international one. It was caused by the efforts of the United States to help the other nations and to protect them against Soviet aggression. It must therefore be solved by international cooperation and agreement."

Illinois Legislators Ask Revenue Studies

Joblessness Plagues Jackson County Area

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A Jackson County legislator said Tuesday that joblessness is plaguing his district and submitted a bill in the Illinois House to extend unemployment compensation benefits.

Samuel C. Bernstein, state unemployment compensation commissioner, said the bill would extend emergency coverage to an estimated 25,000 additional workers. He estimated the extra cost would be $10 million.

Bernstein said Gov. Otto Kerner's administration would have a bill to ask increases in state unemployment compensation. He said the governor's advisory board on the matter will be meeting with him in a few days.

Rep. Gale Williams, R-Murphysboro, introduced the bill and was joined by Rep. August Ruff, R-Chicago.

Williams said that under present law workers who have exhausted their 26 weeks of unemployment benefits are limited by a clause from obtaining emergency extension. They may be eligible for an extra 13 weeks if they are jobless under certain circumstances. One of the circumstances is that two months must have elapsed since 4.375 per cent of the workers covered by unemployment insurance become jobless.

Joblessness has exceeded the percentage in December and January, Bernstein said.

Bernstein said the effect of the bill would be to void other existing restrictions and to blanket under the emergency provisions those workers who had exhausted their 26 weeks benefits in the two months before Feb. 8. He estimated these at 25,000.

The board would have power to ask injunctions to stop showing movies it deemed obscene.

Other bills introduced would: Prohibit Sunday sale of merchandise except food and drink, drugs, medicine, newspapers and magazines, tobacco, flowers, gas, oil and tires, or articles of recreation, sport and amusement.

Permit governmental bodies to enter into collective bargaining agreements with employees.

Require sheriffs and police chiefs to forward to the State Public Department the fingerprints of persons arrested for sex offenses.

The bill grew out of the Starved Rock murders, sponsors said.

Require examination of hearing ability of persons applying for a drivers license.

Require the State Highway Division to maintain white lines along the edges of all-weather surfaced rural highways.

Provide for election of a municipal justice at a general election in any municipality with territory in more than one county.

Permit persons who have not lived within the state for one year to vote for president and vice president.

Abandon Mass Segregation In Georgia

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia abandoned Tuesday its policy of massive segregation in public education.

ports coupled with measures to control farm production and halt surplus output.

Nevertheless, the committee saw little hope that present programs would be effective in preventing a continued piling up of surpluses and a further decline in farm income.

But some views of this committee ran counter to recommendations of special task force committee on cotton, livestock feed grains and wheat. All four committees submitted reports to Kennedy and Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman Tuesday.

The committee on general farm policy said a greatly expanded land retirement program appeared to be a more practical way than controls of bringing farm production into line with markets.

Land retirement was a key proposal of the Republican platform.

The Eisenhower administration had started a soil bank land retirement program, but it came to a halt this year when last year's Democratic-controlled Congress balked at extending the program.

The recommendations of these committees—coupled with proposals laid before Freeman by farm leaders at a conference here Jan. 26—will be used by the administration in drafting new farm proposals Kennedy plans to send to Congress within the next two weeks.

Members of the over-all policy committee were Lauren K. Roth, editor of the editorial page of the Des Moines Register and Tribune; J. Norman Elfterson, dean of the College of Agriculture of Louisiana State University; and Jesse W. Tapp, vice president of the Bank of America at San Francisco. Tapp served as a member of the 18-member Eisenhower administration National Agricultural Advisory Committee.

Cuban Court Gives 6 U.S. Men 30 Years

HAVANA (AP) — A Cuban military tribunal sentenced six American adventurers to 30 years in prison Tuesday for "crimes against the powers of the state."

The prosecution had demanded death before a firing squad.

International political considerations apparently influenced the verdict to spare their lives. Thirty years is the maximum prison sentence under Cuban law.

The six claimed they had come to Cuba in a fishing boat to help Fidel Castro's revolution and not to fight it. The tribunal had heard them finished deliberating three days ago.

Delays between reaching a verdict and announcing it are not uncommon here. But informed legal sources said Prime Minister Castro had been weighing the verdict.

The decision was seen as a reaction to President Kennedy's State of the Union message, in which Communist domination of Cuba was denounced.

In Washington, the State Department declined comment pending a receipt of a full report on the case which it has requested from the Swiss embassy.

The Swiss have been handling U.S. affairs in Cuba since the United States broke diplomatic ties with Cuba.

A higher military court could possibly reduce the sentences, suspend them altogether or order the prisoners deported. Accordingly, defense attorneys planned an immediate appeal for the six.

They are George R. Beck, 24, of Norton, Mass.; Tommy L. Baker, 28, of Dothan, Ala.; Donald Joe Green, 28, of Clover, S.C.; James E. Bean, 34, of Cedar Falls, N.C.; Alfred E. Gibson, 32, of Durham, N.C.; and Leonard Louis Schmidt, 21, of Chicago.

Defense lawyers said they would not get the formal documents of sentencing until Wednesday and then can appeal.

Rockets And Blueboys Post Victories; Tigers Lose, 75-34

Routt's Full Court Press In 4th Period Stops Maroons, 75-54

By STAN SPOTTS

A full court press in the fourth quarter was made to order for the Routt Rockets as it forced White Hall to commit numerous mistakes and the Winstead aggregation romped to a 75-54 romp at the JHS Bowl Tuesday night.

The game had been a close affair for three periods as the Rockets were ice cold but they got their scoring machine into gear in the final stanza to hit 13 of 25 field goal attempts and a total of 30 points in the eight minutes of play. Nursing a slim 45-42 lead over Bill Rendleman's Maroons after three quarters Routt hit eight of its first 11 shots to open the fourth with guard Fred Curtis finding the range for five buckets in six attempts.

Redlegs Look For Help From Freese, Jay

By FRED HUTCHINSON

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — Last year our hitting was spotty, the defense questionable and the pitching inconsistent.

The Cincinnati club, I feel, remedied at least two of these weaknesses by acquiring Gene Freese from the White Sox and Joey Jay from the Braves. Freese hit 17 homers and drove in almost 80 runs last season, and he's certain to give us more power. Jay should be a better pitcher than he has shown. He'll get more chance to work regularly with us than he did with Milwaukee.

With Jay, Bob Purkey, Jim O'Toole, Jay Hook, Claude Osteen and Jim Maloney we have a good young pitching staff. They'll be backed up by Marshall Bridges, Bill Henry and Jim Brosnan. Pitching can be one of our strongest points if things go the way I expect.

I realize that we gave up good men in shortstop Roy McMillan and pitcher Cal McLish in order to get Freese and Jay. But I am hoping that either Leo Cardenas or Eddie Kasko can do the job at short, Kasko hit .292 for us last season, and Cardenas proved himself an excellent fielder. Our infield will be a good one if Gordon Coleman can come through at first base and Jim Baumer at second. We have some fine reports on Baumer, who was drafted from the Pacific Coast League. Frank Robinson, Vada Pinson and Gus Bell give us three top men in the outfield. Behind them are Wally Post and Jerry Lynch, who is one of the best pinch hitters in the game.

There are few better catchers than our Ed Bailey. He hits the long ball and is a fine handler of pitchers. Pittsburgh, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Los Angeles and San Francisco are strong in many departments, and it looks like an interesting race. If we can learn to take advantage of most of our opportunities, the Reds will make it interesting for all of them.

Desert Classic Opens Wednesday

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The last, longest and possibly the most lucrative of California's winter golf shows opens Wednesday when 128 pros start shooting for a pot that could — with one lucky stroke — exceed $100,000.

They'll be shooting Sunday, for this 90-hole event, known as the Desert classic, runs five days and covers as many courses.

In addition to the regular prize money, $50,000 is guaranteed and substantially more may be added — a prize of $50,000 will go to any professional lucky to score a hole in one.

A year ago, Lloyds of London insured the tournament against a hole in one for a premium of $4,850.

But Joe Campbell of Knoxville, Tenn., turned the tournament's modest investment into a real bargain by scoring on the 209-yard fifth hole at Tamarisk. The actaries thought that one over, and made this year's premium $13,500.

Campbell will be back and so will Arnold Palmer, who won this event in 1960.

Also in the field are Gary Player, winner of the San Francisco International, Bob Rosburg, winner of the Crosby Open, and Bob Goalby, who took first money in the year's first event, the Los Angeles Open.

For the first four days, golfers will be split up on four different courses, the Thunderbird (par 71; 6,800 yards), El Dorado (71; 6,800), Bermuda Dunes (72; 7,008) and Indian Wells (72; 6,900). The final round will be played at Tamarisk (72; 7,062).

TO REPAIR STATUE

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — The Communist government plans to repair and re-erect a statue of Queen Elizabeth, Austrian wife of Franz Josef, the emperor of Austria and Hungary from 1868 to 1918. The bronze statue was stolen seven years ago and found recently, badly damaged, in a cellar.

Downstate Prep Notes

By JOHN CAMPBELL

Downstate fans may see DuSable of Chicago in the State high school basketball finals again. Jim Brown coached DuSable to runner-up honors in 1954 at the State tournament and he has a tall team this season with speed and plenty of scoring ability. Floyd McMillon, 6-7, is the third brother to star for DuSable as his brother, Shelle, starred on that fine team of 1954. Jay Barnhart, Frosh stand-out at East Peoria high, was called up to the varsity ranks after the Christmas holidays. He scored 19 points last week against Woodruff and Friday he had 10 against Spaulding and 17 points against Canton on Saturday. Will Watson of Tremont is another standout freshman as he displayed the poise of a seasoned veteran in helping the "Turks" win the County title over Delavan by a one point decision in an overtime.

Mason City won its third straight Mason County title by beating Havana 69-38. Dennis Beard led the Huskies' scoring with 19 points as Coach Martin Chelovich's lads displayed a team effort in the win. Havana played without Randy Eton, its top rebounder and number two scorer. Mike Conklin, a soph, led the Ducks with eight points.

Coach Dickie Stearns' Aledo Green Dragons won the 16th annual Aledo Invitational tournament. Carthage high broke away from a 36-36 tie at the end of the third quarter and defeated Brown County of Mt. Sterling 59-49. Mike O'Connell paced the Blue boys with 21 points, 13 of which came in the decisive fourth period. Terry Wilson's two-handed push shot from 80 feet with one second left gave the Carthage high Blueboys a 44-42 win over Hamilton Friday night.

The basket climaxed a contest that saw the teams tied at the end of two periods and Elmer Borman's lads leading at the end of the first quarter by two points. Abingdon won the Knox County title four straight years but Knoxville ended the winning streak Friday night 66-58. Tom Gardner paced DuSable to the title in the Tri-County tourney at Wenona. Mid County lost 57-54 to the Wildcats and it was Toluca's 13th win in 17 games.

Coach Paul Shebby's record at Danville Schlemmer the past three and one half years shows 67 wins and only nine losses. It's been 13 years and 263 varsity wins since Shebby went to coach at Schlemmer high. He has coached such great players as Tony and Nelson Davis, Jerry Kummerle, Jim Williams and Paul Spisak. The 5-3 coach says that "Bryan Williams is the best I've ever coached."

Williams, 6-5 center, is the lad who scored 56 points in the Centennial tourney last month and shot a blistering .614 from the field in four games.

Gary Tucker, transfer junior from Abingdon high, paced Galesburg with 27 points Saturday night in beating Pekin 78-53 in an Illinois conference game. The Galesburg club is 3-1 in the conference while Pekin Richards and Canton are leading with 5-1 records.

Keth Sherman led Valley (Fairview) with 43 points in beating Lewistown's Indians 81-70. He broke his own record of 35 points set last year. He converted on 15 of 17 free throws to pace Hank Bennett's club. Ron Patterson led Farmington with 25 points in beating Metamora 70-42 while Cuba rocked Astoria's Pirates 76-65.

Dick Brown is leading Canton high in all departments as the 6-4 center has hit 54 per cent of his field goal attempts and averaged 20.1 points per game. John Cruser is second in scoring for Joe Adam's club with 15.9 average, the only other player in double figures.

Coach Adam is pleased with the performance of John Malone, 6-2 forward, who became eligible Tuesday as he scored 7 points against Limestone and 13 points in the win against East Peoria Saturday night. He is expected to add a much needed scoring punch to the Canton Little Giants' offense as the club enters the stretch drive in the conference race.

WAVERLY — The New Berlin Pretzels got a 29 point production from Carl Compendo and a 20 point output from Ed Hamer to down the Waverly Scoties 69-61 in a non-conference contest. The Pretzels were down by 10 points at half time, 34-24, but scored 55 points in the second half to win their twelfth game against five losses. Jim Summers did a yearman's job for the Scoties by stuffing in 27 points but he didn't have quite enough help and Waverly absorbed their tenth loss against seven wins.

Waverly did salvage the JV game in an overtime, 44-39.

Lawn Tennis Should Drop Amateur Front

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — A leading U.S. tennis official said Tuesday the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association should drop its "amateur" front and become the governing body of all players, pro and amateur alike.

Tournament should be open with 16 players asking as much money as they wish or that traffic will bear. Ralph W. Westcott added in a report which he is submitting to the USLTA annual meeting this week-end in New Orleans.

"I am completely convinced that we cannot conduct tournaments—without a gate as we know them, with any hope of honestly policing and enforcing any expense limitations," Westcott said.

The Chicago business executive is chairman of the association's Research and Planning Committee. The 16-member committee is making several recommendations to the general meeting but Westcott says the views on open tennis are strictly his own.

The recommendations include: 1. That championship matches be reduced from best-of-five to best-of-three sets to speed up play and stimulate interest.

2. That immediate and appropriate action be taken against players guilty of offensive conduct in tournament or Davis Cup play. U.S. Davis Cup players were sharply criticized for bad sportsmanship during the recent campaign in Australia and Chuck McKinley of St. Louis a member of the squad, is on suspension for losing a racket in the inter-zone match against the Italians at Perth.

3. That a change be made in the age limit eligibility dates, permitting each player in an age group to play the full 12 months of his last year. At present, Jan. 1 is the cutoff date.

4. That the word "nothing" be substituted for "love" in official scoring.

Westcott said, "whether we like it or not, we know that a number of our top circuit players are not amateurs under the rules. Accordingly, our top tournaments are not amateur events."

He said both the USLTA and the International Lawn Tennis Federation should drop the word "amateur" from their constitutions and by-laws and open the door to all players.

TEMPORARY HEADQUARTERS CHICAGO (AP) — George Halas Tuesday set up temporary headquarters in a downtown hotel, a block from his Chicago Bears offices destroyed by fire during the night.

The National Football League pioneer said he was not sure how much damage was done to records of advance ticket sales, films of games, diagrams of plays planned for next season, player personnel data and other valuable materials.

BASEBALL FUTURE DARK TULSA, Okla. (AP) — "The future of Texas League baseball in Tulsa is very dark."

Thus spoke Graye Howlett, president of the Tulsa Oilers, after the Tulsa Fair Board Executive Committee demanded increased liability insurance as one of five requirements the club must meet before it can get a new lease on its home playing field, Texas League Park.

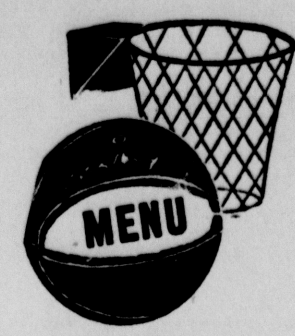

The park is county-owned property under jurisdiction of the fair board.

CARDINALS COMPLETE DEAL ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday completed their deal with Toronto for right-hander Al Ciochete by assigning the contract of outfielder Ellis Burton to the International League team.

The Cardinals gave up pitcher Cal Browning and outfielder Leon Wagner for the 31-year-old Ciochete when the transaction was announced last October. Ciochete led the International League in earned run average (1.79), shutouts (8), strikeouts (158) and victories (16) in 1960.

Stanton, 76-65. The Cavaliers led by only five at the half, 30-25, but they warmed up in the third period and scored 22 points to the losers 12 to ice the contest. Carlinville shot 48 per cent from the field, while Stanton shot 37 per cent. Carl Kasten led the winners with 25 points while Barry Daist topped Stanton with 18.

Stanka Blasts Chisox Action
TOKYO (AP) — Joe Stanka, self-styled guinea pig in American-Japanese baseball relations, Tuesday accused the Chicago White Sox of using him as a tool to get Japanese players.

But the veteran minor leaguer who made good here last year said he went on the voluntary retired list at the end of the 1959 season and was restored to the active list strictly by White Sox action.

He said in an interview the White Sox really do not want him. He charged they want several Japanese ball players for publicity purposes and are using him as a scapegoat to get Japanese baseball officials to make a deal.

The 6-foot-5 pitcher from Waynoka, Okla., declared his 1960 Nankai contract was "a heck of a lot bigger" than the White Sox ever offered, and this year he got a raise. He's already signed.

Last year he had a 17-12 won, lost record and a 2.40 earned run average.

In Chicago, Ed Short, White Sox traveling secretary and promotions director, said, "Last year we sent Stanka a contract, but he told us he was thinking of quitting baseball to take a job in Oklahoma. He wound up playing baseball in Japan. We've sent him a contract for this season, but apparently he is going to stay over there."

"We would like to have him back, especially if his record over there last season is any indication of what he can do."

"We don't know what he means in saying we want several Japanese players for publicity purposes. We wouldn't want any 11 players for any purpose other than their ability to play baseball."

White Sox president Bill Veck, in Chicago, said that Stanka's contract was bought from Sacramento in late 1959 for about $30,000. "Stanka is still the property of the White Sox and represents an investment by us," Veck said, "We have informed Japanese baseball officials of this. Just what Commissioner Ford Frick can do about it, if anything, is not known by us at this time. It looks as if it could become a very interesting case."

Funds Available To Build New Mental Hospital

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — (AP) — A group of Southern Illinois legislators has asked the attorney general if money from the $150 million mental health bond issue can be used to construct new state institutions.

The delegation also asked Atty. Gen. William L. Clark Tuesday if the bond money could be used to build branches of existing institutions at new sites.

House Speaker Paul Powell of Vienna and Sen. Dwight Friedrich, R-Centralia, headed the delegation which conferred with Clark.

Lt. Gov. Samuel Shappiro, who accompanied the group, said Gov. Otto Kerner probably will ask the attorney general for a ruling on the matter soon.

Kerner has said that under wording of the bond issue, approved by voters Nov. 8, it is questionable whether the money could be allocated for construction of mental institutions at new sites. Friedrich has gone on record against Powell's $4 million dollar appropriation proposed for a school for the mentally retarded at Harrisburg unless guaranteed the proposed mental hospital at Centralia is constructed.

An $11.5 million appropriation for the Central project was approved by the 1958 legislature. But some legislators believe sufficient funds will not be available from the General Revenue Fund to build the hospital.

The Harrisburg institution would be constructed with money from the Mental Health Fund, which is supported by relatives of mental patients.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Some aircraft - missile shares spurred on news of the successful Minuteman rocket shoot while the stock market as a whole moved irregularly early in the afternoon. Trading was fairly active.

Changes of most key stocks were small. A spurt of buying late in the morning followed news of the rocket launching and led to some improvement in other sectors of the list but the general tone was still ragged.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 20 at 234.50 with industrials down .40, and both rails and utilities unchanged.

Stocks, nonferrous metals, utilities, rails, tobacco, and chemicals were uneven. Big three motors were firm. Airlines, drugs, oils, and electrical equipments were a bit higher.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .45 at 647.75. Corporate and U.S. government bonds were steady in light trading.

WHEAT, BEANS RISE ABOVE WEAK START

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat and soybean futures turned toward firmness today after a slightly weaker opening on the Board of Trade but other grains continued to show small losses.

As demand for soybeans mounted the old crop contracts moved up about two cents above the previous close. Dealers said offerings virtually dried up and that shorts who sold on Tuesday's steep setback began covering those commitments and perhaps extending long positions.

The fact that offerings had dropped almost to a trickle, relatively, was viewed as an indication that the market had pretty well absorbed the large accumulation of profit selling for the present.

Old crop wheat months derived support from a renewed export business.

Soybeans were 1/4-1/2 cents a bushel higher shortly before noon. March $2.59 1/4; wheat 1/4-1/2 higher. March $2.14; corn 1/4-1/2 lower. March $1.15; oats 1/4-1/2 lower. March 66 cents; rye 1/4-1/2 lower. March $1.18 1/2.

Strike Curtails Delivery Of Six New York Papers

NEW YORK (AP) — A strike of deliverymen against wholesalers curtailed delivery today of the city's six morning newspapers.

The walkout was called by about 1,700 truck drivers of the Newspaper and Mail Deliverers Union against 35 wholesalers who deliver papers in the New York, Connecticut-New Jersey area.

Papers hit immediately were the Times, Herald-Tribune, News, Mirror, Wall Street Journal, Journal of Commerce and several foreign dailies.

Deliveries as reported by the papers ranged from "pretty well" to "bad" in the suburban sections. Drivers employed directly by newspapers were not involved in the walkout. They handle a large part of the delivery work inside the city.

Wholesalers do most of the delivering outside the city, however. All of the afternoon papers involved in the strike, meanwhile, went ahead with publishing plans and said they hoped to get papers to most areas.

The afternoon papers are the Post, World-Telegram and Sun, Journal-American, Long Island Press and Long Island Star-Journal.

The strike started at midnight when the old contract between the union and wholesalers expired. A strike vote was taken some two weeks ago.

Negotiations continued all night and then recessed at 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. Deliverymen now get about $15 weekly, with day men working a 40-hour week and night men 37 hours. The union wants a 35-hour week for all workers.

Nine Members Of Kerner Cabinet Win Senate OK

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Nine members of Gov. Otto Kerner's new cabinet have won confirmation from the Illinois Senate.

All of them received unanimous approval Tuesday except one — Agriculture Director Ralph Bradley of Springfield.

Sen. David Davis, R-Bloomington, who voted against Bradley's confirmation, said that Bradley, as former president of the Illinois Farmers Union, represented a group which had a "radical program."

Bradley said he was aware of differences of opinion between the Farmers Union and its bigger rival — the Illinois Agricultural Association — but added they "are not serious and there is no animosity."

Family, Who Broke White Boycott, Leaves

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The John N. Thompson family, whose two sons broke a white boycott at an integrated public school, left their furnished home during the night for an undisclosed destination.

Calls at the home went unanswered and neighbors said the family departed Tuesday night carrying little or no belongings.

A man identifying himself as Thompson, 33, father of six, called station WDSU-TV Tuesday night and said the family was leaving on the first train, but gave no destination.

The two boys, Gregory, 9, and Michael, 8, entered McDonough 19 Tuesday under the watchful but silent protests of white parents boycotting the school.

About 30 persons, mostly women, gathered at the school but looked on silently as the two Thompson boys entered escorted by U.S. deputy marshals. The group said nothing when the three Negro girls attending the school arrived a few minutes later.

Thompson defied the 10-week-old boycott for the first time last Friday by sending Gregory to McDonough.

POULTRY MARKET

ADVERTISE — IT PAYS

DIAMOND JUBILEE

Sam Retzer, rural route 5, Jacksonville, was an early shopper at the Sears store Wednesday morning, the 75th birthday anniversary of Sears, Roebuck & Co. He was greeted by Nancy Wynn, Sears employee, garbed in the style of 1886. Her dress was made of cloth printed with reproductions of pages from early Sears catalogs.

The giant birthday cake shown was cut and served with coffee and soft drinks during the day-long celebration.

Together 58 Years

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McMahan

The fifty-eighth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McMahan of 349 Caldwell street, will occur Sunday, Feb. 5th. Due to Mr. McMahan's health no celebration is planned.

They were married at Morrisonville, Ill. Feb. 5, 1903. There are three children, Orville McMahan, Timewell; Mrs. Leslie B. (Lucille) Smith of Modesto and Mrs. Lola Johnson, Jacksonville. They have one grandson, William E. McMahan, Sr. of Jacksonville and two great grandchildren, William E. Jr. and Belinda McMahan.

Pushbutton Missile's First Test

The distance covered was just 2,000 miles short of the intended operational range of 6,300 miles.

This was the first time that all stages of a military rocket were manufactured by different contractors. Thiokol made the first stage, Aerojet the second and Hercules the third. Boeing Aircraft Co., is assembly and test manager.

"Anything beyond the first stage will be strictly a bonus," a project official said. "We decided to go for broke on the first launch because success would cut the test program by several months."

Previous multistage military rocket programs have started with testing of only one stage and worked up to the full configuration, gradually weaving in guidance, nose cone and other refinements.

The Air Force plans to have Minuteman ready for combat by mid-1962.

Once the missile is perfected, the Air Force plans the fastest buildup in missile history with at least 600 Minutemen to be deployed by 1964. About 450 of these will be spread across the western United States in underground silos designed to survive a near miss by a nuclear bomb. The remainder will be on special railroad trains.

Defense planners are talking of eventually having 2,000 Minutemen on station.

As the Minuteman force is built up, the so-called missile gap between this country and Russia will begin to close, many military experts predict. Many predict both nations will be even in number of long range missiles in 1965.

Obsolete Base Order Can Stir Up Hornet Nests

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's order for a survey looking to "elimination of obsolete bases" of the armed forces can stir up hornet nests both at home and abroad.

The President's brief reference to the matter was in his State of the Union message. He did not differentiate between domestic and overseas bases, apparently leaving that to the Defense Department.

Ever though new weapons or strategy may dictate the closing of bases, local communities which have received economic support from operation of the bases are hard to convince. They also have spoken in Congress.

Overseas, opinion can be divided. Some may look upon an American missile or air base as defense for the area. Others may and often do—contend that bases may attract enemy rockets or bombers. And, as in the United States, there also is the matter of additional income for the community.

Actually, the process of trimming down the big network of Air Force, Navy and Army bases was under way before Kennedy ordered it included in the broad study.

During a six-month period ending last December, 30 major active bases were made standby or caretaker bases, reducing a June total of 72.

The rate of deactivation had been stepped up. In June, 1958, there were 840 bases at home and overseas. A year later there were 799.

JFK Will Ask Added Revenue If Necessary

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has told Democratic leaders he will ask Congress for additional revenue to match any new spending requests that could be blamed for unbalancing the Eisenhower budget.

Kennedy has made it clear he feels former President Dwight D. Eisenhower left behind a budget that cannot be balanced without an unexpected upturn in the nation's economy.

The President was represented as being determined to make it clear that if there is a deficit in the year beginning July 1, the preceding Republican administration will have to take its share of the blame.

Kennedy told his party chieftain at a White House conference Tuesday he has ordered his economic advisers to analyze published estimates that revenues may fall $5 billion below the $82.3-billion figure set by Eisenhower.

As a further complication, an upsurge of foreign aid purchases in the summer and fall months of 1960—presumably to bolster the economy—may make it necessary for Kennedy to ask supplemental funds to keep the overseas pipelines from running dry.

Faced with what he regards as a left-over deficit, Kennedy emphasized that he will not add to this by asking for additional spending without matching revenue.

In this connection, he is expected to renew Eisenhower's recommendations for postal rate increases and a half-cent a gallon boost in the federal gasoline tax.

Although the President spelled out no advance details, his anti-recession message to Congress Thursday is not expected to call for any massive increase in spending.

Roving Cattle Buyer To Answer Murder Charge

divorcee that turned up Henter—still very much alive.

Mrs. Arrie Newberry had met Henter through her son and listened to his proposal of marriage at her prospering farm near Colquitt. But she wanted to know more, and wrote to "the honorable mayor" of Pine City, a title held by Art Bietermann.

Bietermann, a grocer, took the letter to the sheriff, who set Georgia officers on the trail of the cattle buyer. Henter was arrested Saturday. He waived extradition.

Much of the speculation here centers on the possibility Henter used lonely hearts clubs to meet women. Pittman said a stack of mail piled up a few weeks ago when Henter served a jail term on a bad check charge.

Henter's first two wives died within the last five years. Gertrude, July 20, 1955, in a long illness. Lula Jane June in a peculiar accident. She was hurled into a water-filled ditch when his car was forced off the road, Henter told police.

Henter has served a state prison term for molesting two girls and was free on bond for check charges in two Minnesota counties.

A-SCIENTIST MISSING

TOKYO (AP) — Police reported today an atomic scientist has been missing from the Japan Atomic Energy Research Institute since Jan. 7.

He is Osamu Tsukamoto, 29, chief operator of an atomic reactor at the institute in Tokai village. Authorities said his work did not involve handling secret or confidential material.

Police said the missing man left a note to a colleague saying he had been called away on urgent private business.

registered at the park lodge where Weger was employed as a dishwasher.

Weger showed no emotion or recognition Tuesday when he came face to face for the first time with the husband of the woman he is accused of murdering.

In turn, George Oetting appeared as unemotional as the defendant.

"Oh, is that the boy?" said Oetting, when Weger was pointed out to him by newsmen. "I've never seen him before."

Weger was seated at a table by himself when Oetting entered the court chamber. The defendant gave no sign of recognition when he brushed past Oetting during a recess.

Later, Oetting said he would not voice any opposition to the death penalty which the prosecution is seeking.

"After all," Oetting said, "I am tremendously human too."

Oetting said he and the husbands of the two other victims had conferred frequently with the prosecution. But, he said, he did not plan to take the stand himself.

Oetting said he has been in ill health for several years with a heart condition and only recently returned to his job as general supervisor of internal audits for the Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

Most of the jurors who have been disqualified for cause stated they either oppose capital punishment or have a fixed opinion on the case.

standing still in the water under a noose.

Gen. Humberto Delgado, exiled chief of the Portuguese revolutionary movement against Salazar, was in Recife. One report was that he had talked with Brazilian officials and then relayed Galvao a request to dock.

It was not clear whether this would mean that Galvao was to take up the political asylum offered by President Quadros without a final decision on whether he could keep control of the ship.

A Rio De Janeiro radio station, Radio Jornal Do Commercio, said Delgado was among the men who boarded the Santa Maria for the sea consultations.

WHAT EVER HAPPENED TO BABY JANE

By Henry Farrell

Copyright © 1960 by Henry Farrell Distributed by Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

IX

Blanche freed herself of this reverie.

Her gaze flew out suddenly to the house at the end of the garden as one of the French doors swung open, and Mrs. Bates, as if making her appearance at just that moment deliberately to point out to Blanche the foolishness of her overwrought conjecture, emerged placidly onto the lawn. Dressed as always in her smock and straw hat she paused glanced down the length of the garden with evident satisfaction and then crossed to the faucet to turn it on. Blanche, pulling herself closer to the grillwork, reached eagerly into her pocket for the note.

Mrs. Bates was still far enough away that she might not notice. But if she waited to drop it, and Jane came into the room before she'd had the chance. . . . Then sound came from the hallway, and her decision was made for her; letting go of the grillwork, she shoved herself back and dropped down into her chair.

She had only just managed to get her chair away from the window and turned around when the door opened and Jane shuffled into view.

Jane was wearing her usual morning costume, an old wrapper of quilted and badly soiled white satin. Her dyed hair was in the same state of wild disarray as it had been when she had first awakened and gotten out of bed, and on her feet she wore the red patent-leather sandals. She was carrying another covered tray.

Jane put the breakfast tray down on the desk and with no sign of any special interest took up the one from the evening before and moved back toward the door. Just as she was starting from the room, however, she paused.

Jane crossed back to the tray on the desk, reached out to the cloth and pulled it aside. As she did so Blanche quickly averted her eyes.

She remained quite still, even after Jane's footsteps had faded away through the hallway and down the stairs. But then, knowing that she would have to sooner or later, she made herself turn and look in the direction of the desk.

She had been so certain that she was to be confronted with a sight of sickening repugnance that it was several moments before her mind adjusted to the fact that what she was staring at was only her usual breakfast, a poached egg, orange juice, buttered toast and tea.

With an air of resolution she wheeled herself back to the window, boosted herself up out of the chair and reached for the grillwork.

Craning forward, she studied the figure down below more closely. Suppose she was the kind of woman who liked always to be at the center of the excitement, who might try to interfere personally instead of calling Dr. Shelby. Or—suppose she was a notorious seeker and called the newspapers!

Blanche drew back from the window as if from a threatened blow. Suddenly she saw it quite clearly, photographed and reproduced in the evening papers along with a resume, no doubt of her career, ending with the accident which had ended that career. They might even uncover some of the information about the accident that the studio had managed to suppress. . . .

She let go of the grille and eased herself down into her chair. She saw now that her plan with the note held dangers she had not considered; there could so easily be ugly consequences, consequences that she didn't dare risk. But if she threw away this chance, there wouldn't be another until Mrs. Stitt came on Friday. . . .

Certainly, Mrs. Stitt had informed Jane, too, of her plans. Jane could hardly be plotting anything so sinister, knowing that woman would be coming into the house the next morning. Recalling her morbid fancies about Jane's plans to starve and frighten her to death, Blanche felt a faint flush of chagrin. What a state she had been in! Since Jane had uncovered the breakfast tray to show Blanche there was nothing wrong, it was evident the hideous nonsense was ended.

And then she remembered; Mrs. Stitt had altered her plans for the week; she had said she would be back on Monday morning. Tomorrow! The awful weight of her anxiety fell suddenly away. How foolish to have forgotten; in her fright it had simply slipped her mind.

But now that she had remembered it was all so simple; when Mrs. Stitt came tomorrow, she would promptly send her out to call Dr. Shelby from the nearest phone booth, and when he came. . . . What an absolute fool she had been to let herself get into such a state over nothing. Folding the note quickly, almost embarrassedly, she shoved it back into her pocket.

Volunteer Services Award Program, Tea Friday, February 10

Sixty-eight volunteers from Jacksonville and surrounding area will be honored at a special tea and award ceremony Friday, February 10, at 2 o'clock in the staff house dining room of Jacksonville State Hospital for service to the local state institution during the past year. The program will honor those persons who have donated their time regularly to help patients and is the sixth annual observance.

The volunteer services program has shown itself to be a great asset in helping patients to return to society quickly and more completely adjusted. Volunteers help reading classes, operate mobile libraries, play cards and other games regularly on the wards of the state institution.

The volunteer services program at Jacksonville State Hospital is under the direction of Mrs. Nadeene Massey, supervisor; Mrs. Margaret Marsh, associate supervisor and Mrs. Barbara Fernandes, secretary.

The committee in charge of the program: Alfred Riley, business administrator; Miss Cecilia Peterson, chief nurse; Dale Charles, food service manager; Oscar Gronsch, activity program supervisor; and Mrs. Ethel Newport, chief housekeeper.

PROGRAM
The program starting at 2 p.m. will be:

Presiding, Alfred Riley, business administrator.
Invocation, Rabbi Meyer Abramowitz.
Presentation of Awards, Joseph Marcovitch, M.D., Supt.

House OKs Funds To Build School For Slow Pupils

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The Illinois House today passed a $4 million appropriation for construction of a school for the mentally retarded at Harrisburg. The vote was 155-8.

The bill goes to the Senate. House Speaker Paul Powell of Vienna, author of the measure, said the type of mental patients at the proposed hospital will be determined by the new State Welfare Director, Dr. Francis Gerty. Original plans called for a school for educable mentally retarded children.

Rep. William Pollack, House GOP minority leader, voted against the measure, stating that $5,000 to be refunded to Harrisburg residents for purchase of land "would set a bad precedent."

Harrisburg residents have raised that amount for purchase of the 120-acre site. The bill was approved with an emergency clause. If passed by the Senate, the bill would become law immediately upon being signed by Gov. Otto Kerner.

Mothers' March Drive Sets New Campaign Record Tuesday Night

Mild winter temperatures, plenty of energetic campaign workers, a well organized campaign plan and the hundreds of residents of Jacksonville and surrounding area who said "yes" to the New March of Dimes combined to boost the 1961 Mothers' March to a new record Tuesday night. A total exceeding $2500 was collected by more than 200 mothers who helped canvass Jacksonville and South Jacksonville Tuesday evening.

The well-oiled campaign was headed by Mrs. Carl Schanbacher, Mrs. Otto Beerup, Jr., and Mrs. William Shouse. Mrs. Ray McKinley was county chairman for the month-long New March of Dimes.

The 1961 total was more than $800 over the 1959 efforts and one of the most successful in recent years. One veteran campaign worker said Tuesday night was the first time in three years the Mothers' March wasn't struck by either a snowstorm or ice storm.

William Shouse was chairman of a committee to secure drivers for the 200 mothers who participated in the precinct-by-precinct canvass of the Jacksonville area.

Salem Lutheran School was headquarters for the Mothers' March campaign phase. All workers arrived before 6:15 p.m., received their assignments, received transportation to the blocks assigned and returned to the school where all funds were counted and rolled. By 10 o'clock most funds were ready for deposit in the bank.

Volunteers counted the stacks of coins, bills and checks. The deposit made at 10 p.m. was $2,452.30 with late collections swelling the sum to $2,474.43 far surpassing the anticipated expectation. Two energetic workers, Katie Laughary and Millie Poole, checking back with headquarters and finding the near final count shy of $2,500 informed the Mothers' March Chairman Mrs. William Shouse they would continue solicitations until the difference could be met.

The young mothers met with success near midnight, calling at business establishments open in the evenings and reported their collection total early Wednesday morning to bring the overall collection above the $2,500 mark, a very high amount to better in 1962.

Coffee and cookies were waiting for the returning workers in the school cafeteria Tuesday night.

Clubs helping in the Mothers' March campaign were Junior Women's Club; American Legion Auxiliary; Beta Sigma Phi; Kappa Omega; Newcomers; Pilots; Catholic Daughters; Toastmasters; Zeta Beta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi; AMVETS Aux-liary; Exchangeettes; Boat Club; Road Gents' Wives. Clubs donating drivers for the campaign were: Rotary, Jaycees, Kiwanis, Exchange, Legion, Road Gents, and Boat Club.

Those donating homemade cookies and coffee, tea for the workers were: Business and Professional Women, Exchangeettes, Zeta Beta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, Boat Club, National Foods, Jacksonville Foods, A & P Foods Store, The Kroger Company, Shays' Red and White, Jacksonville Coca-Cola Bottling Co., Hamilton's Cafe, AMVETS Post 100, and Kaiser Supply Co.

Emil Turner handled solicitation of all taverns in the county; Keith Schuman, distribution of school cards; and Joe Grojean, distribution of coin collectors in the business district.

Mrs. Ray McKinley, chairman of the county-wide campaign, said Tuesday evening that all funds collected would be used to fight polio, birth defects and arthritis and joined with campaign workers throughout the county to thank everyone who said "yes" to the New March of Dimes.

County Campaign

The Mothers' March on Polio, Birth Defects and Arthritis was carried to almost every home in Morgan county Tuesday. The county campaign outside Jacksonville reached an incomplete $765.26 according to records compiled early Wednesday.

A break down of towns, chairman and amounts collected: Murrayville, Mrs. Kenneth Megginson, chairman, $106.00.

Woodson, Mrs. James Megginson, chairman, $57.20.

Lynnville, Mrs. Lyle Lewis, chairman, $48.76.

Franklin, Mrs. Lloyd Lovell, chairman, $89.77.

Alexander, Mrs. Luke Keller, chairman, $59.75.

Chapin, Mrs. Ernest Deimer, chairman, $185.76.

Waverly, Mrs. Harold Shekelton, chairman, $185.52.

Meredosia, Mrs. Joseph Panella, chairman, missing.

Literberry, Mrs. John Decker, chairman, $32.50.

Liberty Aid, Mrs. Harry Killam, chairman, missing.

Question Four On Burglary At Lawford Suite

NEW YORK (P)—Three men and a woman, arrested Sunday night, have been questioned about the burglary in early January of a hotel suite occupied by actor Peter Lawford and his wife, a sister of President Kennedy, Chief of Detectives James J. Walsh said today.

Police have been reluctant to discuss the burglary, in which $30,000 in gems and $1,000 in cash were reported missing.

Walsh said the four persons—all Canadians—had been questioned.

Deputy Police Commissioner Walter Arm, department press representative, turned aside all queries.

Walsh said the four questioned about the theft were booked on grand larceny charges.
